Secretary Adams Defends Navy In Hoover Controversy

CLAIMS COST BELOW THAT OF ENGLAND

Cabinet Officer Says Assertions of Excessive Burden Are Misleading
ACTION IS SIGNIFICANT
Meanwhile Hoover About to Announce Personnel Body to Probe Charges

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Stepping boldly into the cross fire between President Hoover and Navy league, Secretary of Navy Charles Francis Adams has undertaken to champion the cause of the navy against what he terms "extremely misleading" assertions that it is an excessive burden on the country.

He has issued a statement declaring the American navy costs per capita about half what the British Navy costs and that the United States spends on its navy, in proportion to national income, far less than any other naval power.

Though he seldom issues press statements, this one was put out for Monday newspapers under his own signature. His action was construed in some quarters as a challenge to the administration in view of persistent rumors in Washington that he was in conflict with President Hoover over the administration economy campaign against the navy and might resign.

His action gained significance also because it came just as President Hoover was about to announce appointment of a special committee to investigate assertions by William Howard Gardner, president of the Navy league, that the President displays "abys-

Forgive, scheduled to appear before Judge Symes because of alleged liquor law violations, is a contestant in a dance marathon. He has walked through more than 780 weary hours.

His attorneys asked Judge Symes to postpone his court appearance. The judge consented to do so, until the end of the contest, which may bring Forgive a $1,000 prize.

RALPH CAPONE ORDERED START SERVING TERM

Supreme Court Refuses to Review Case of Attempted Tax Evasion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Ralph J. Capone, younger brother of the reputed Chicago gang leader, Al Capone, must immediately begin service of the three-year jail sentence imposed on him for attempted income tax evasion as the result of a supreme court ruling handed down today.

The court refused to review the procedure which the younger Capone was convicted in Chicago as one of the first cases in the government's drive to punish alleged racketeers under the internal revenue laws.

Capone is also under sentence to pay a $10,000 fine.

In giving its approval to the government's drive the supreme court acted with the same dispatch that has marked the proceedings against the two brothers throughout. Ralph filed his appeal papers Oct. 26 and on the same day the application for review was submitted to the bench.

A mandate ordering his sentence to begin service of his sentence will be forwarded to Chicago within a few days and shortly after that he should be on his way to Leavenworth penitentiary.

There he will await the arrival of his elder brother who is scheduled to begin service of his sentence.

HOLLYWOOD CITIZEN AND NEWS COMBINED

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The Hollywood Citizen-News made its first appearance here today as a press run of more than 40,000.

The new paper, representing a merger of the Hollywood Citizen and the Hollywood News, contained 24 pages.

The Citizen-News came into existence late Saturday when Judge Harlan Palmer, long publisher of the citizen, bought the News from Colonel Ira Copley, chain publisher of Illinois and Southern California. Judge Palmer was reported to have paid $600,000 for the News.

The Citizen-News occupies the new $250,000 building in which the News formerly was published. Harold E. Swisher, formerly managing editor of the citizen, continues in that capacity on the Citizen-News.

FREE BRIDGE HELD BY STATE TROOPS
DURANT, Okla., Nov. 2.—(UP)—The third military occupation of the free bridge and river between here and Denison was effected before daylight today.

Fifteen men and three officers moved into the martial law zone which Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray had declared last July when he first used troops to open the bridge in defiance to a federal court injunction order.

The seizure was to prevent possible closing of the free span by federal court order. Judge John Pollock at Kansas City was scheduled to open hearings on an injunction suit filed by the Red River Toll Bridge company, operators of a toll span parallel to the free bridge.

RECEPTION TO PREMIER LAVAL IS ROYAL ONE

French Prime Minister Returns Home Today Well Pleased with Trip

LE HAVRE, France, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Premier Pierre Laval returned today from the United States, voicing his confidence that "France will keep the faith" on plans for international collaboration discussed at Washington.

He announced his plans to arrange an international conference on reparations revision early in December.

Hailed by a blare of bands and shouts of a crowd that cheered him as a conquering hero, the swarthy, smiling premier landed on French soil with the knowledge that he had firmly upheld the policies of his government abroad.

"The conversations in Washington accomplished more than I had hoped for," Laval said as he landed at the flag beaded quay where a crowd on holiday because of Memorial day and All Saints' day had gathered in the bright sunshine.

"Primarily the conversations resulted in mutual agreement for consultation before political action in the future. This will permit French liberal action in Europe."

Want to assure Americans that France will keep the faith, I will personally invite parliament to take the initiative possibly in audacious measures for rapprochement with Germany, and in other steps to rehabilitate Europe. President Hoover stressed, and I agree, that recovery depends on helping Germany to get on her feet.

The He de France had a rough crossing from New York but the weather was bright and clear as it put in Le Havre with the premier's party, including his daughter, Mlle. Jose.

German Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch, returning today from Berlin where he talked with his government in preparation for the conferences with Laval, may be summoned to the premier's office this afternoon, rather than on Tuesday, as previously scheduled. Laval plans to suggest to him that Germany take the initiative in appealing for reparations relief under the Young plan machinery.

The ambassador will present data on Germany's indebtedness gathered by a special credit subcommittee of the German economic general staff, including Dr. Hans Luther, president of the reichsbank.

Demurrer Is Filed Today By Cannon

Contends Certain Sections of Corrupt Practices Act Are Illegal

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., today filed through counsel a demurrer to the indictment charging him with violation of the Federal Corrupt Practices act.

The demurrer, filed in District of Columbia supreme court for the Bishop and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, his secretary, contended certain sections of the Corrupt Practices act were unconstitutional.

Arguments on the case were set for November 20. The defense asked a full day for argument.

The demurrer alleged that the Corrupt Practices act was unconstitutional in that it violated section 1 of article 2 of the Constitution.

Filing of the demurrer was made when Cannon's arraignment under the grand jury indictment was called today.

The demurrer said the law "attempts to regulate contributions and expenditures made to influence the election of presidential and vice presidential electors in several states."

Filing of the demurrer is expected to have the effect of delaying the bishop's trial, even though the demurrer is not sustained, considerably. If the demurrer is sustained the case, in the usual order, will be thrown out of court. If it is denied after argument the bishop then can appeal to the district appellate court and to the United States supreme court, and decisions must be rendered against him by those bodies before his case can be called for trial.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC WINS COURT RULING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The city of Willow Glen, Calif., today lost its fight to require the Southern Pacific company to obtain local permission before running its road through the city. The supreme court refused to review the circuit court ruling which decided the city injunctive relief.

The railroad obtained permission from the Interstate Commerce Commission to relocate its San Francisco-Los Angeles line through the city of San Jose as well as from San Jose authorities and the California Railroad commission. It failed to apply for similar permission in Willow Glen in advance.

The Federal District court had granted the city an injunction against the road but this was set aside by the higher body.

PANTAGES PLACED ON TRIAL IN PRINGLE ASSAULT CASE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire theater man, went to trial again here today on the charge that he assaulted Eunice Pringle, amateur dancer.

A last minute change switched Superior Judge Clair Tappan to the court where the aged Greek must defend himself.

Attorneys started immediately to question prospective jurors, a task that was expected to continue for at least three days.

Pantages was tried and convicted on the charge once but the conviction was reversed by the state supreme court which ruled that Trial Judge Charles Fricke erred in refusing to permit the defense to enter evidence concerning Miss Pringle's past. The supreme court also found that the conduct of District Attorney Buron Fitts had been prejudicial at the trial.

Miss Pringle claimed that she was assaulted by Pantages when she went to his office seeking an engagement on his vaudeville circuit. She was 17 at the time.

Miss Pringle also has filed a million dollar damage suit against the showman.

As at his first trial Pantages was accompanied to the courtroom by his wife, Mrs. Lois Pantages, and his sons, Rodney and Lloyd.

Miss Pringle was not in court today but her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Lewis Pringle, attended the session.

District Attorney Fitts, who personally prosecuted Pantages at the first trial, will not appear in the present trial, the case having been turned over to his chief deputy, Robert Stewart.

PRESS, PUBLIC ARE BARRED AT BRITTON TRIAL

Judge Killits Says Evidence Presented Would Corrupt Morals

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 2.—(UP)—The public and newspapermen were barred from the courtroom of Federal Judge John M. Killits today as Nan Britton was scheduled to testify in the trial of her $50,000 libel suit against C. A. Klunk, Marion hotel keeper.

Announcing he was preparing a statement explaining his action, Judge Killits said it was on the grounds that "the evidence to be presented would corrupt public morals."

From the witness stand Miss Britton purportedly was to substantiate the written claims of her book, "The President's Daughter," that former President Harding was the father of her 12 year old daughter, Elizabeth Ann, Klunk's part in retelling a written report. "The Answer to the President's Daughter" is the basis of Nan's libel suit.

Proceedings of the trial have been secret since Friday when Judge Killits in refusing to let Miss Britton take the witness stand, ordered a secret conference of attorneys. Later, he disclosed the court had impounded a deposition of a New York hotel to prevent its publication.

The court intimated last week that the public and press might be barred from subsequent sessions. Provoked at the presence of high school students in the courtroom Killits forbade minors from further attendance, promising a contempt of court citation if his order was disobeyed. He likewise censured adult spectators for displaying so much interest in the "salacious details" of the trial. This remark drew a formal objection from Nan's attorney, William Fish Marshall.

WOMAN TAXI FIRM HEAD LOSES LIFE

RIVERSIDE, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Thought to have been a victim of a blackmail or revenge plot, Mrs. Alice B. Papaniti, owner of a taxi service, was found beaten and shot to death in an orange grove near here Sunday.

Police sought for questioning the woman's former husband, Otto Hardy, who was released from San Quentin penitentiary in 1929 after serving seven years for alleged participation in a blackmail case.

Mrs. Papaniti was last seen Saturday night by Police Chief Senator Bruke, who said she picked up two "fares" in the heart of town. Her body, bound and gagged, was discovered by C. W. White on his ranch. Her taxi was found in a ditch at Colton, six miles away.

$150,000 IN GOLD SALVAGED FROM SEA

SAN PEDRO, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The salvage tug Peacock, carrying $150,000 of the $185,000 in gold ingots and silver coins lost when the S. S. Colombia was wrecked off Point Toca, Baja California, was due to arrive here today.

Radio advices said the tug was escorted by a coast guard patrol boat to protect it from possible pirate raids reminiscent of early days when Spanish and English marauders were the scourge of gold laden galleons.

The money was recovered, the advices stated, after the ship's strong box, located many feet under the surface of the water, was dynamited.

Men Rushed To Mojave Early Today

Reports Assert Siphon and Spillway Destroyed By Severe Blast

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The Los Angeles aqueduct bringing water from Owens Valley to this city, was dynamited near Mojave early today, according to reports received at the sheriff's office.

The message asked that all available men be rushed to the scene. No details were immediately available.

A. J. Powers, chief special agent for the bureau of water and power received a telephone call early today from an unidentified man who told him the aqueduct had been dynamited at Jawbone canyon, which is 15 miles north of Mojave.

The informant said both the siphon and spillway at that point had been destroyed.

Destruction of the siphon would be a serious matter, Powers said, but the spillway could be easily repaired.

J. S. Moore of the water bureau requested aid of deputies from Capt. A. C. Patton of the sheriff's office, and men were sent to the vicinity of the reported blast.

Dozens of damaging explosions have occurred along the 250 mile water route from the High Sierra range during the 20 years in which the residents of Owens Valley requested the action of Los Angeles officials who were behind the water plan.

On one occasion armed farmers held off city guards while other valley residents opened flood gates and allowed the precious water to flow into the desert. The valley also was divided into sectional groups as some of the farmers elected to battle the city while others sold out.

The last disturbance was about five years ago.

The postmaster at Little Lake, a village in the vicinity of the aqueduct, told the United Press by telephone that little damage had been done. He said, however, that

MARSHALL DUFFIELD NOT SEEKING POST

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 2.—(UP)—The announced candidacy of Marshall Duffield, former University of Southern California football player, for the office of mayor of Santa Monica, failed to materialize when the period of filing of nomination papers closed Saturday night, it was learned today.

Eight candidates filed nomination petitions, including Herman Michel, present mayor, but Duffield's name was not among them.

The former Trojan star had announced himself a candidate last spring, although at the time he was not yet of voting age. He reached his majority in September, however. Duffield majored in political economy during his college course.

Billy Sunday Is Back Again At His Old Stand

CANTON, O., Nov. 2.—(UP)—The Rev. William A. Sunday has opened another sizzling evangelistic campaign in this town that gaped at his antics and verbal fireworks 20 years ago.

Capacity crowds heard him yesterday as he flung scripture and pulpit wise cracks of which these were typical:

"No nation was ever able to hand God the hot end of a poker."

"There will be a lot of God-fearing men and women in Russia when Stalin and his cut throats are sizzling in hell."

"We're making money in the United States by the baskets full and going to hell by the trainload at excursion rates."

WILL SEEK TO BAND LIBERALS AND LABOR IN PROGRAM OF RECONSTRUCTION

WORLD COPYRIGHT, 1931, BY THE UNITED PRESS
CHURCH, SURREY, England, Nov. 2.—(UP)—David Lloyd George, war-time prime minister and Liberal party leader has declared himself for a policy of close cooperation between Liberals and Laborites in the new British parliament to prepare a bold program of reconstruction.

The aggressive, white-haired Welshman, was widely mentioned as leader of the laborite opposition to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's national government. As a result of the cabinet's overwhelming victory in the election, he will seek to mobilize all "advanced" liberals, laborites and other progressive forces. He believed the government incapable of achieving reconstruction of the nation, he indicated to the United Press and the Manchester Guardian in his first interview since the election.

Lloyd George emphasized, however, that he merely planned cooperation of the anti-government parliamentary factions and did not envisage a unification of his liberal faction with labor. A majority of the liberals will support the cabinet.

He admitted that his conservative

INDIAN CONFESSES TO GIRL'S MURDER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—The justice department announced today that a young Apache Indian, Golney Seymour, had confessed to agents of the department to the murder of Miss Lemietta Schaeffer, young Columbia university student on the White River Indian reservation, Arizona, last July.

The confession was obtained by a bureau of investigation agent attached to the El Paso, Tex., office and forwarded here today.

According to the confession, Seymour said he had "criminally" assaulted the girl before killing her.

Seymour is being held at the reservation and will be tried in the federal court for Arizona.

SOVIET WILL RESIST

All Japan Reported Fearing Clash with Russia is Certain in Short Time

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Japanese military advances against two points within "The Russian sphere of influence" in Manchuria and a "secret Chinese-Russian" treaty were reported today in alarming dispatches to the London newspapers concerning war threats in China.

The Daily Express correspondent at Tokyo said the Japanese infantrymen enroute from Kirin to Tachon were moving with "extreme caution" and under protection of strict censorship on news dispatches.

The Soviet, warned last week by Japan against mobilization of its troops in Manchurian territory, was reported "in a belligerent attitude."

The Daily Mail correspondent at Tokyo reported that Japanese were threatening to advance northward from Kirin province because Chinese troops in northern Manchuria had defied a Japanese ultimatum to repair a damaged railroad bridge. The bridge was wrecked last week by Japanese aviators who said Chinese had fired on them. The ultimatum will expire tomorrow.

Preparations were reported started at Mukden, the Manchurian capital, to send a powerful Japanese force to "unknown destinations." It also was said Chinese were preparing to seize the Japanese consulate at Tientsin, in northern Manchuria.

The Daily Mail quoted a message from Port Arthur saying a secret Chinese-Russian agreement had been reached, under which the Chinese government head, Chiang Kai-shek, undertook to resume diplomatic relations with Russia if Moscow promised not to interfere in affairs in inner Mongolia. The dispatch said some Chinese militarists were reported boasting they were not afraid of Japan because $9,000

PRICE OF CRUDE IN OKLAHOMA GOES UP

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Economic rejuvenation was promised the southwest's midcontinent oil area today as an increase of 15 cents a barrel for crude oil became effective in Oklahoma, Kansas and north Texas.

The increase, which went into effect at 7 o'clock this morning added approximately $25,000 a day to the income of oil operators in the three states. The oil industry's daily income in this section formerly was $299,000, and now will be approximately $1,215,000.

The new price schedule, placing the price for a barrel of crude oil at $5.15 compared with 22 cents in July, it was announced.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—[To the Editor of The Register:] Did you ever spend a lonesome hour in a strange town? You all think you have, but you haven't. The lonesomest hour in the entire world is in Mexico City and Madrid, Spain, on Sunday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 5, when everyone has gone to the bullfights. I am not against it. Every nation for their own affairs and own sports. Some nations like to see blood and suffer from speculation. It's all in your point of view. They kill the bull very quick. PRESS, PUBLIC ARE BARRED AT BRITTON TRIAL

Judge Killis, who came out of retirement to sit at the trial, cleared the room an hour after court had reconvened.

"When this action commenced," he said, "we directed that the help and the public, the young girl in her character forming age, be removed from this courtroom." He referred to his order to Nan that her daughter, Elizabeth Ann, be kept out of the courtroom on the second day of the trial.

"Then we submitted to the inconveniences of having a crowd of persons in this courtroom until Thursday evening when we notified girls and possibly some boys that continued," he said. "We went further and ordered all minors expelled. We issued these orders in such a spirit that would make any normal minded woman wonder if she should attend."

He then ordered the court cleared.

"Mr. Osborn, please open the windows and clear the air, so we can breathe easily," he commanded.

As he took the bench this morning Killis announced that Nan would be permitted to testify.

"There remains for the plaintiff to prove only one question, the extent of publication of the book 'The Answer to the President's Daughters,'" he said, adding that Nan would be allowed to take the stand for cross-examination. How far she would be interrogated rested with the court, he said.

used to begin serving his 11-year sentence.

The younger of the two notorious Chicagoans was convicted of attempting to obtain a compromise of income tax claims against him by false statements of fact.

He was accused of attempting to "cheat and defraud" the government of $3,065.75 by false statements and representations.

Capone filed belated income tax returns for the years 1922, 1923, 1924, and 1925 giving his occupation as "gambler" from which he had gained $20,000 for each of the three years and $15,000 the fourth year.

He admitted that he owed the government $4065.75 but contended that he was unable to pay the full amount since he had only $1000. The indictment against him alleged that while making these representations he failed to disclose assets worth at least $25,000.

JAPAN TROOPS REPORTED TO BE ADVANCING

Soviet troops were waiting to resist a Japanese advance.

The Daily Mail correspondent said all Japan feared a clash with Soviet Russia was inevitable, and that Japan would not heed the League of Nations demand to withdraw occupation troops by November 16.

Another dispatch from Manchuria said Chinese forces resisting Japan in northern Manchuria were given Soviet military supplies, but later had decided to accept friendly terms with Japan and block the Russian railroad route through Manchuria over the Chinese eastern railroad.

RAILWAY MERGER REPORTED AT TOKIO

TOKIO, Nov. 2.—(UP)—Japanese civil and military authorities are concentrating on a merger of railway lines to strengthen their position in Manchuria, government activities indicated today.

It was understood that the Kirin-Changchun and Kirin-Tsinhua railways, two important lines in Manchuria, will be merged to facilitate operations and management possibly as a preliminary to completing a line into Japanese-controlled Korea.

The Korea line would link all Japanese railways under the powerful south Manchurian lines. It was believed that army authorities in some places were urging the establishment of new Chinese local governments to aid the rail consolidations. They argued that co-operation would improve service and hasten development. It would likewise strengthen Japanese military communications, observers pointed out.

WATER GROUP MAKING PLANS FOR HEARING

Members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce water committee met at noon today at Ketter's cafe, preparatory to attending the hearing before the state legislative committee on the state-wide water conservation program scheduled for 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in Riverside.

Committeemen are Col. S. H. Finley, member of the Metropolitan Water district directorate and chairman of the chamber of commerce committee; Nat Neff, county highway superintendent; C. H. Chapman, member of the board of supervisors; Stanley Reinhaus, W. W. Hoy and Horace Head, William C. Jerome and George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, who were appointed by directors of the chamber to attend today's session.

The Riverside session will be held at the Mission Inn and will bring representatives of the various counties in touch with members of the legislative committee of which Assemblyman Ted Craig is a member, for a discussion of participation in the proposed $600,000,000 conservation program. The legislative committee includes seven members from each branch of the state legislature.

The first conference of the Southern California series is being held today in San Diego. The meeting in Riverside, tomorrow, will be the second with the third scheduled for Los Angeles on Wednesday and Thursday.

If Orange county decides to participate in the state-wide plan a total of $16,000,000, exclusive of the amount spent for the Metropolitan Water district work, will be available for conservation measures in Orange county, it is said.

In addition to delegates from the chamber of commerce, Orange county will be represented at tomorrow's session by J. L. McBride, Santa Ana city councilman; Ross Shafer, of Tustin, member of the water conservation committee of the Orange county Associated Chambers of Commerce; and Harold Fahlgberg, Orange county farm adviser.

Members of the water committee of the Orange County Coast association are being urged by Chairman Hugh T. O'Connor, to be in attendance either in person or by proxy, at the Riverside conference and to join with the Long Beach delegation at the Los Angeles meetings.

In a letter sent to each member of the committee O'Connor stressed the fact that Assemblyman Ted Craig, representative of this district, is particularly anxious that Orange county be represented at tomorrow's session in Riverside.

He said in the letter: "There is some question as to the wisdom of Orange county endorsing this state-wide plan, involving expenditure of a vast amount of money, as well as the solving of a number of very difficult problems of distribution; or to encourage or own flood control and water conservation plans as recommended by engineers to the board of supervisors, last April."

ADAMS ENTERS INTO HOOVER'S NAVAL BATTLE

mal ignorance" of naval policy and is "dictating its external subordination to those of foreign naval powers." Mr. Hoover publicly demanded an apology from Gardiner for his "untruths."

Meanwhile a statement from a high official of the Navy league indicated Gardiner will face pressure from within his own organization to accede to the President's request for an apology.

Henry Breckinridge, prominent attorney, who is a member of the league's executive committee and was formerly its president, disassociated himself from the part of Gardiner's statement which spoke "with disrespect of the president of the United States." Gardiner had issued the statement in the name of the league.

Previously Mr. Hoover, believing some in the navy were attempting to start a backfire against his economies, threatened to carry his case to the American people. Adams apparently framed his own statement as an appeal to the country for it closed with this cryptic sentence: "For the American standard of living, we have a comparatively inexpensive naval establishment, and it gives me pleasure to bring this fact to the attention of the American people in order that they may not be misled by confusing statistics haphazardly interpreted."

In issuing this statement, Adams said his attention had been called to one by the world peace foundation charging the United States with expending more than Great Britain on its navy. He said this was misleading. The United States spent in 1920 $375,291,828 as against $249,927,670 by Great Britain. Adams said, but he added this did not taken into account the relatively higher cost of labor and materials in America, or the higher naval pay.

Adams said the per capita cost of the American navy is $3.24 per year as against $6.21 for Great Britain, $3.29 for France, $2.08 for Japan, $1.84 for Italy, and $0.78 for Germany. The ratio of the naval budgets to national income was given as follows: United States, .0045; Great Britain, .0148; Japan, .0239; Italy, .0175; Germany, .0039. Figures for Great Britain, France and Italy do not include the cost of air forces which though administered independently operate in conjunction with naval forces, whereas the American navy maintains its own air services.

J. C. PUBLICATION WINS PRIZE AWARDS

Bringing with them second prize awards for both news stories and editorial work, Paul Wright, editor in chief of El Don, official publication of the Associated Students at the Santa Ana Junior college, and Glover Hendrickson, managing editor, in company with Edgar M. Flowers, instructor in journalism, returned yesterday from a two-day convention of the California Junior College Press association, held in Hollywood.

May Marx, formerly on the staff of the Santa Ana High school Generator, was the author of the editorial, "Men Are Like Cakes," which won the award, ranking second only to a recent publication in the Ventura Junior Collegian, and Hendrickson wrote the winning news story on organization plans of a new jace club of engineers. Compton Junior college was presented the winning cup for the best front page makeup and best back page makeup. The Tartar Shield, also a Compton publication, won the cup for the best yearbook represented, with the Chaffee annual running a close second.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

WALTER GREGG DIES SUDDENLY AT HIS HOME

Walter S. Gregg, 58, Orange county pioneer and director of social welfare of the county for 16 years, died suddenly Saturday at his home, 465 East Maple avenue, Orange. Gregg, who recently resigned from the welfare board which he organized in 1915, was working in the garden at his home when stricken. He went into the house and died within 15 minutes.

The deceased is survived by his widow, Cora Gregg, one son, Richard, and Margaret, a daughter, both of Orange, and one brother, Harry Gregg, of Reno, Nevada.

Active in Masonic lodge circles he would have completed his twenty-seventh term as secretary of the Orange lodge in two months. He was a member of the Royal Arch chapter and a past patron of the Orange Eastern Star. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Trinity Episcopal church of Orange under direction of the Gilgoly funeral chapel. The Rev. J. A. Shibley, rector, will conduct the church service and the Masonic lodge will have charge of graveside rites.

Gregg was born in San Francisco and came to Orange in 1894. In 1915 he organized the county welfare board and was placed in charge of it by the supervisors. He remained in that position until several weeks ago when he resigned, the vacancy being filled by Byron Curry.

Y ENTERTAINS 100 BOYS HALLOWE'EN

With the idea of keeping boys off the street and at the same time providing them with wholesome entertainment, the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. was host Saturday night to 100 boys at a Halloween party.

The party was under the direction of D. H. Tibbals, in charge of boys work at the association, who had arranged a series of games and contests, closing with refreshments.

First prize in a contest for the best costumes was awarded to Hal Smith, who competed as a circus clown; Ted Brand took second as a ghost, and Carl Sly was awarded third prize as a clown.

A feature of the entertainment was "The Den of Horrors," a room of darkness, weird noises, unexpected obstacles and electrical shocking devices. A balloon bursting relay and a bean guessing contest were also on the entertainment schedule.

ROLPH'S CONDITION REPORTED IMPROVED

Governor Rolph, III at St. Francis hospital, showed continued improvement today, his physician, Dr. John Galloway reported. The physician said he would examine the governor today to determine if his cold has abated sufficiently for him to leave the hospital Tuesday. Dr. Galloway said he would only allow the executive to leave under promise to keep on resting and put in his time recuperating for the next week.

NAME O. H. BARR TO HEAD 1931 GRAND JURY

Eighteen men and one woman make up the 1931 Orange county grand jury which was selected today and which began the annual investigation into the affairs of this county. Mrs. Minnette Clayton of Orange, is the woman on the jury.

O. H. Barr, prominent Santa Ana lumber dealer and civic worker was named foreman by Presiding Judge H. G. Ames as the box was filled. After reading instructions to the jury, covering the law in regard to its activities and outlining its powers and duties, Judge Ames urged it to peruse recommendations made by the last grand jury and to see if these have been complied with. He pointed out, however, that these recommendations are not binding upon the present body if it does not approve of them.

Members of the jury in addition to Foreman Barr and Mrs. Clayton are: John J. Harrison, H. A. Bowles, J. F. Richards and Frank Latham, of Santa Ana; William A. Dolan and Perry W. Mathis, of Anaheim; Ray Lambert and Charles O. Artz, of Tustin; Sam Kraemer, Jr., of Placentia; Nelson M. Launer, of La Habra; Richard Haster, of Katella; Earl M. Crawford, of Olive; Thomas Morphine, Jr., San Clemente; George E. Gothard and Emil C. Kettler, Jr., Huntington Beach; Arley Leck, of San Juan Capistrano, and Harry E. Becker of Brea.

Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton was present to represent the district attorney's office today but it is probable that he will be relieved by Assistant District Attorney S. B. Kaufman later. The advice of the district attorney is available to the grand jury.

diver tariff plan was inevitable but reiterated that it would fall to solve Britain's problems.

"Liberalism and labor can co-operate," he continued. "There is a fruitful belt of territory for liberalism and labor, without touching regions of divergence, to cultivate together for the benefit of the nation for many years. When that task is accomplished there will be time enough to fall out about the ultimate plans for social reconstruction."

a highway in Grapevine canyon had been washed away by the water.

The postmaster said he "wasn't sure" that dynamite had caused the rupture of the aqueduct. He said that it held more water than usual and that he thought it was possible that this caused the siphon to break.

He said he understood that two legs of the siphon went out. Little Lake is in Kern county, about 80 miles south of Owens Lake. The aqueduct taps Owens river just above Owens Lake.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION
That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for Calomel.
Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.
Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.
No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.
If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Twenty Years of Progress!
TWENTY years ago The Los Angeles Evening Herald was born. Today it is the largest daily newspaper in the entire west, both in advertising and in circulation. These twenty years have been filled with action of tremendous import to the Southland. Certainly no other period in the history of Southern California has witnessed such magnificent progress and development. Twenty years ago the population of the eleven counties south of the Tehachapi was less than 820,000. Today more than 3,000,000 people call this southern paradise their home. In these two decades Los Angeles has grown from a population of about 350,000—the 17th city in the United States—to a great metropolis of a million and a quarter people—the 5th city of the Nation. In this same period, The Evening Herald has had a corresponding growth. The first issue had a net circulation of less than 35,000. Today's Evening Herald will reach well over 225,000 homes. On this our twentieth birthday, The Los Angeles Evening Herald thanks its many friends for their loyal support and pledges itself to continue to strive for the best in Southern California, and—as it has in the past—to steadfastly hold for the forward development of the Southland and the prosperity of its citizens.

EIGHT HURT IN FIVE CRASHES CAUSED BY FOG

Fog, the greatest danger to motorists, hung heavily over Orange county roads both Saturday night and Sunday night, causing a big reduction in the amount of traffic and therefore causing fewer accidents, according to reports made by the state traffic department.

There were five crashes reported, in which eight persons were hurt. None are believed to have been badly injured.

Miss Estelle Schlesinger, of 417 South Birch street, was badly cut and bruised late Saturday night when the car in which she was riding with Inez Pierce, the driver, of 1420 North Garnsey street, struck a parked car in the fog on North Main street. Miss Schlesinger was thrown through the windshield. The driver of the car was not reported hurt.

The parked car was rammed into a street lighting fixture, which was broken off at the base. Three cars were tangled in a traffic accident in the heavy fog on the Coast highway at the west entrance to Huntington Beach at 2:30 a. m. Sunday.

John D. Chelnis, of 1455 Chestnut avenue, Long Beach, driver of one of the machines was reported badly hurt. J. P. Terrell, marine, of San Diego, driver of the second car, was cut and bruised and James W. Hatchcock of Huntington Beach, driver of the third car also was cut and bruised. The Hatchcock car is said to have struck the two other machines, after they had collided at an intersection.

Robert Gilbert, artist, of 2407 French street, was severely cut in the left eye by flying glass, when the car he was driving, owned by Dr. Dale E. Brockett, collided with a telephone pole and a brick wall at Seventeenth and North Main streets, late Saturday night. The car was badly damaged.

Manuel Corrallo, of 325 Juriana street, Anaheim, suffered severe cuts and bruises when the truck he was driving in the Santa Ana canyon ran off the road and plunged over a 30 foot embankment Saturday night. He was taken to the Orange county hospital.

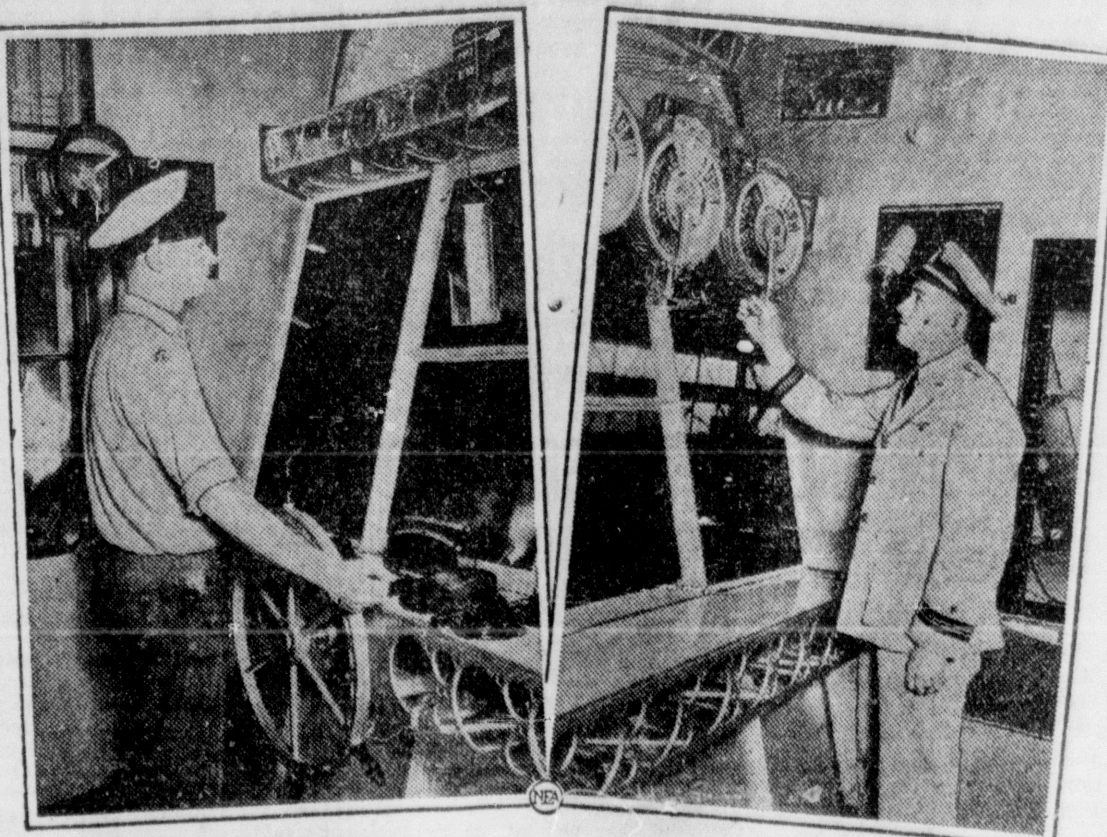

Corrallo reported he was attempting to dodge another truck, coming from the opposite direction, and got too far over to one side of the road.

Emanuel Moore, of 1118 North Los Angeles street, Anaheim, was treated for a badly cut arm at the Orange county hospital yesterday, received, it was reported, when he was thrown through a windshield in an automobile accident.

The two places were believed to have been entered by Hallowes' jokers, who after breaking in, were satisfied, he said.

THEY GUIDE AIRSHIP AKRON

MURDER COUNT FILED AGAINST LOUIS MORALES

Charged with murder, Louis Morales, 21, of 415 South Olive street, Anaheim, will go on trial in the Orange county superior court to face the responsibility for the death of Roy O'Brien, 21, adopted son of Albert O'Brien, of East Broadway, who was killed in an automobile accident at the Brea intersection of the state highway last Friday night.

This became known today when James Pearson, chief of police at Fullerton, filed a complaint charging murder with the Orange county district attorney's office, following Morales arraignment in the Fullerton justice court.

The coroner's jury had found that O'Brien met his death as a result of an auto accident caused by the reckless driving of Morales who was found to have been under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Funeral services for O'Brien will be held Wednesday at 10:30 o'clock from the McAulay funeral parlors, Fullerton. Interment is to be made at the Anaheim cemetery.

Mrs. Alice Bowman, 313 South Lemon street, Anaheim, a third passenger in the car, was taken to the Fullerton General hospital following the accident where she was treated for a fractured skull and other injuries. She is reported to be out of danger.

Ventura Judge Is Injured In Crash

Judge Edward Henderson, of Ventura, was injured in an automobile accident early today while on his way to Santa Ana to see Judge G. K. Scovel, who has gone to Ventura. Mrs. Henderson was with Judge Henderson at the time and both were taken to a Los Angeles hospital.

Only meager details regarding the accident were available when the mishap was reported on the telephone to County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Report Theft Of Two Automobiles

Two automobiles were reported stolen here over the week end, neither of which has so far been recovered.

Mabel E. Trago, of 216 Cypress street, reported to the police last night that her car was stolen from a place where it was parked between Third and Fourth streets on Broadway.

A car owned by Cecil V. Hamilton, of 1029 Cypress street was reported stolen from a place where he left it Sunday, parked between Sycamore street and Broadway on Third street.

COURT MOVES TO HOSPITAL FOR SESSION

A court session was held at the county hospital today, when Julius Conners, 19, of Tustin, testified about the motorcycle-automobile crash at Central avenue and South Main street on September 20, in which Paul Winkler, 16, also of Tustin, was fatally injured. Adjournment for this purpose was taken after Officer Ed Lentz and Deputy Coroner J. B. Castex had testified in the case, in which Stephen Poras, school janitor, is accused of manslaughter as a result of Winkler's death. Poras drove the car which was struck by the motorcycle.

Castex read the transcript of Poras' testimony at the inquest into Winkler's death. W. Maxwell Burke, Poras' attorney, stipulated that the record might be read but informed the court that he believed the Poras statement was not entirely voluntary. The transcript read by Castex showed that Poras had said he did not see the motorcycle until it was almost to the bumper of his car, a high rate of speed.

Orange Sets Record For Construction

Building permits issued this year in the city of Orange up to the end of October from January 1 were almost double those of 1930 for the same period. This year permits were $219,049 and last year they were but $141,000. Last year 20 permits were issued and this year but 15. Last year in October permits were for building operations to cost $8300 and this year they were for $10,675.

Last year four new structures were built and 16 were remodeled and this year five new structures were built and 10 remodeled during the month.

Poras was completing a left turn from Main street to Central avenue when the crash came. His inquest testimony said that as he approached the corner another car was coming from the opposite direction about 200 feet away and that the motorcycle swung around this car as it was nearing him, and the accident happened. He said at the inquest he thought the motorcycle was traveling at almost to the bumper of his car, a high rate of speed.

FINE ESTATE IS SET AT $100,000

The will of the late Horace Fine, dean of Orange county newspapermen, probably will be filed for probate tomorrow in the superior court here, it was learned today at the offices of the attorneys who drew the will, West and McKinney.

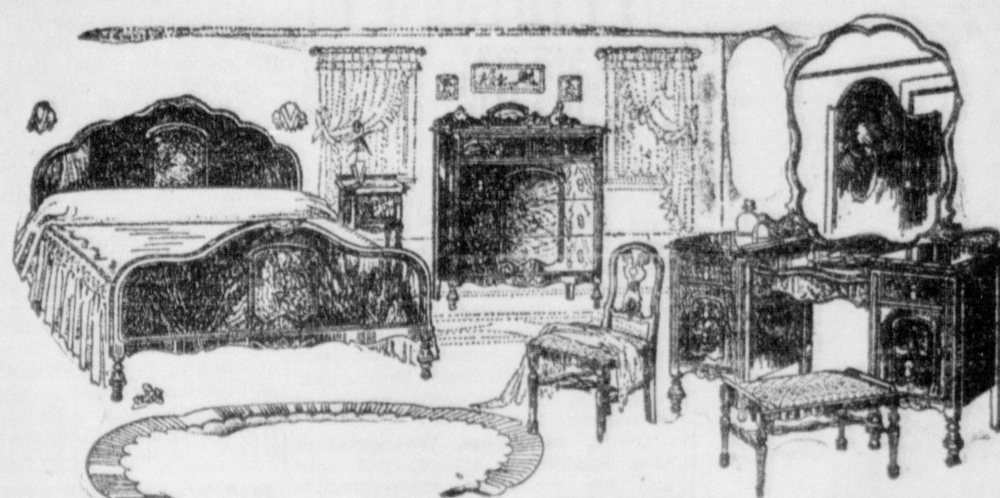

That the estate may be worth as much as $100,000 in the aggregate was admitted today by B. Z. McKinney.

Mrs. Charlotte Lufberry and Miss Clara Fine, daughters, will inherit the estate. George Young, brother in law of Mr. Fine, has been named executor in the document, drawn about two weeks ago by L. A. West. It replaced another will drawn several years ago.

Business property at Fifth and Broadway, owned jointly by Fine and his brother, Walter Fine, represents a large part of the estate.

Lentz, who also testified at the first day of the trial, said today that the corner of Central avenue and Main street is an open intersection but a full crossing because Central avenue ends at Main street. It is a 45-mile zone, he said, and cannot be declared a 15-mile zone because the streets are not built up thickly enough.

EXCHANGE SHIPS 6538 CARS OF CITRUS FRUIT

Combined shipments of citrus associations affiliated with the Orange County Fruit Exchange from November 1, 1930, to November 1, 1931, aggregated 6538 cars of fruit, consisting of 5574 cars of valencias, 534 cars of lemons, 122 cars of navel, six cars of grapefruit and two cars of miscellaneous varieties. It was announced today by C. C. Harris, manager.

Harris declined to divulge the amount received for the fruit, following a policy adopted by the exchange last year.

Approximately 200 cars remain in pre-cooling plants of exchange associations in this district, with about 600 cars remaining throughout the state. The fruit will be shipped before serious competition is felt from Florida and Northern California citrus, Harris stated.

Shipments the previous year, when a short crop was harvested, follow: Valencias, 4172; navel, 98; lemons, 817; miscellaneous, 20. In the 1928-29 season, the exchange associations shipped 6698 cars of valencias, 824 cars of lemons, 137 cars of navel and 15 cars of miscellaneous varieties.

The average size on shipments of the valencia variety to date from Orange county was 222 oranges to

Pilot Takes Aged Mother On First Airplane Flight

Charles "Ace" Jackson, chief instructor at the Eddie Martin Airport and pilot for B. J. Chandler, Santa Ana furniture dealer, has just recently returned from an air tour that took him to his old home in Topeka, Kas., and through the east. Jackson made the trip east with Mr. and Mrs. Chandler who combined a business and pleasure trip, visiting friends and relatives in eastern cities and buying merchandise while in the furniture centers.

The trip to Topeka offered Jackson the thrill that comes but once in a lifetime as it gave him the opportunity to take his mother up for her first airplane ride. His mother, who is 81 years old, had never made an airplane trip and had never seen her son pilot a ship, although he has more than 2000 hours in the air to his credit.

"Ace" said that after his mother made her first hop she became so "air-minded" that she had him take her for another ride before he departed on his return trip to California.

STATE, COUNTY OFFICIALS AT STANTON HOME

More than 100 prominent Southern Californians and their wives were guests Saturday at an elaborate barbecue given by Phil Stanton, member of the California State Highway commission, in honor of Governor Rolph and members of the commission. About half of those present were Orange county citizens. The affair was held at Stanton's home at Brookside.

Owing to illness, the governor was unable to attend, but sent as his personal representative James Herz of Sacramento. Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. Merriam was prominent among those present, while members of the commission attending were John Kelly of Redding, chairman; Frank A. Tetley, Riverside; and Charles A. Hopkins, Taft. Other guests were M. Purcell, San Francisco, state engineer; and S. V. Cortelyou, Los Angeles, district engineer.

Prior to the barbecue short speeches were made by all of the officials present and by Stanton, host. Guests thronged about tables set under a grape arbor for the feast which followed.

NEW TALE OF MARITAL WOE GETS AIRING

A new chapter in the story of the tribulations of married life, was written today with the filing of a divorce complaint against Frank Claudina by Carrie Claudina, of Newport Beach, who said she could not induce him to take a bath and that he, in turn, accused her of putting Dutch Cleanser in his food.

A previous divorce action was launched in 1928, in which Mrs. Claudina accused her husband of having an income of $500 a month, asking for $150 a month alimony. This case gradually faded out. The action filed today said a property settlement had been made.

Claudina, in his answer to the first divorce complaint, said that since his marriage, he had been informed by one of the plaintiffs former husbands that she had made it a business to marry men with property and get hold of as much of the property as possible and then if the husband of the moment did not die, to sue him for divorce and alimony.

The couple married at Newport Beach on September 27, 1928, and two days later a $17,000 breach of promise suit which the woman had brought against Claudina in superior court here, was dismissed. Claudina's answer to this suit said that he already had settled one such case with her for $250 and that this barred her from further action. His answer to the first divorce complaint also said that Mrs. Claudina had insisted on being with him, and that after filing of the second breach of promise suit he despaired of getting rid of her. He said she offered to dismiss the second suit if he would marry her and pay her $250 more. This he said he did, believing this was the easiest and cheapest way out of his trouble.

In the divorce complaint filed today Mrs. Claudina accused her husband of drinking constantly and of boasting of affairs with other women. The separation occurred on October 27, Mrs. Claudina said.

DISTRICT READY TO DRAIN SWAMP

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 2.—If a right of way for a ditch about 200 feet in length can be obtained from the Mills Land and Water company, the Talbert Drainage district will drain the last of the stagnant water seepages west of the Santa Ana river along the coast between the river and Huntington Beach. The seepage area on the Mills land serves as a breeding place for mosquitoes. Also keeping the district drained aids in lowering the surface water over adjacent acreage permitting cultivation of lands closer to the coast in the swamp area.

The drainage district has taken a acre of seepage water over a wide part of the area during the past few years and year by year additional acreage has been drained and put under cultivation. The water is pumped into the Santa Ana river channel and thence flows out to the ocean.

Recently, Louis Buschard got in touch with Hansler Moore, president of the Mills Land and Water company and negotiations are underway for a right of way. Mr. Buschard stated that the right of way has been promised and as soon as the papers are signed work of constructing the ditch will begin.

PEN INMATES "LISTEN IN" BOSTON, (UP)—Each of the inmates of Massachusetts state prison can hear radio programs in his cell from 4:45 p. m. to 10 p. m. over earphones connected with a central receiving station, Warden James L. Hogsett, announced the programs.

POISON in Your bowels!

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels, cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied constipation for over forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drugstore sell.

OCTOBER BUSY MONTH FOR DAN CUPID, RECORDS SHOW

October 1931, as a marriage license month in Orange county surpassed every other October since passage of the three day license law in California in 1927, according to figures released today by County Clerk J. M. Backs. There were 339 licenses issued here during the past month, as compared with 279 in October, 1930.

Orange county apparently has regained its former position as the marrying county of the state, according to reports from Sacramento, where it was stated that in the first nine months of 1931 there have been 1654 fewer marriages than in the same period last year in California.

Orange county made a gain, however, having 2792 marriages in nine months this year, as compared with 2609 last year in the first nine months. Nineteen other counties registered gains also, but not large enough to offset the loss in the remaining counties.

The marriage license bureau here has returned to its former quarters across the hall from the clerk's office, where it will share space with the new registration office which will be established.

ARRANGE FUNERAL OF MRS. MARY HUFF

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ella Huff, 54, a resident of Santa Ana for the last 13 years, who died Sunday after an illness of 18 months, will be held from the Harrell and Brown Funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in charge of the Rev. C. M. Aker, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church.

Mrs. Huff was a native of Williamson county, Tennessee, and the widow of the late W. M. Huff. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Elma Wardlow, Corona, and Mrs. Mary J. Stumpf, Santa Ana; one son, John Elbert Huff, Pasadena; one grand-daughter, Mary Judith Wardlow; five sisters, Mrs. John Cannon, Mrs. Amelia Rice, and Mrs. Herbert Covington, all of Santa Ana, Mrs. R. D. Shive and Mrs. I. S. Sewell, Vernon, Texas; and three brothers, John Givens, Portland, Ore., James and Charles Givens, both of Santa Ana.

MOYLE SCHEDULED TO START SENTENCE

Don Moyle, former Santa Ana flier who, with Cecil Allen, made an attempt to span the Pacific in a non-stop flight from Japan, surrendered today to Sheriff William I. Traeger at Los Angeles to begin serving a 30-day jail sentence for drunken driving, a charge to which he pleaded guilty before leaving for Japan. The jail term was a condition of probation granted by the court.

The sentence was imposed last July by Superior Judge B. Ray Schauer before Moyle and Allen attempted their flight from Tokyo to Seattle. A stay of execution, to October 1, was granted by the court, but Moyle was in Nome at that time. He appeared on October 16 and a further stay was granted so he could reap the benefits of his flight.

He was arrested last spring after his car had struck another machine on a Los Angeles street. Moyle learned when he appeared at jail that he was technically entitled to another day of grace.

HALLOWE'EN QUIET NIGHT IN SANTA ANA

Santa Ana enjoyed the quietest Halloween celebration in years, according to the Santa Ana police department.

Although the usual soaping of windows was carried out by jokesters, little damage to property was reported, and fewer calls were received by the department than at any time in the past several years, according to F. W. Howard, chief of police.

With members of the junior police and boy scouts guarding all fire alarm boxes in the city, there was no trouble experienced in that direction at all, and Chief John Luxembourg of the fire department today congratulated Chief Howard on the fact that it is the first Halloween celebration where no false alarms have disturbed the firemen.

Chief Howard caught several boys soaping the city hall windows early Saturday night. He put them all to work, washing the windows. "Kids will be kids on Halloween night, but they should not expect to soap the city hall windows and then hang around to get caught," he said.

Several downtown Halloween dancing parties gave the business section of the city a festival air with scores of persons parading in masquerade.

Bed Clothes Are Stolen from Home

All the bed clothes from a bed in the home of Mrs. M. Starkey, 214 West First street, were stolen by someone who entered the house Sunday while members of the family were away from home, according to a report made to the city police.

Depression Cycles To Be Discussed

The second of a series of discussions on the causes and cure of depressions will be conducted at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. tonight under the leadership of W. J. Ferris, local businessman. It was announced today by Secretary Ralph Smedley.

Ferris, who will be one of three possible speakers, will confine his discussion to "A History of the Cycles of Depression and Prosperity" during the last 100 years. The discussion will open at 7:30 o'clock and is open to the public.

PHILCO PARADES PROSPERITY WITH BIG SHIPMENT

HUGE SHIPMENT OF RECEIVERS COMES TO PORT

What is reported by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company to be one of the largest radio shipments ever docked at Wilmington was the huge Philco cargo unloaded from the steamship Hawaiian, consigned for distribution throughout Southern California, direct from the Philco Storage Battery corporation at Philadelphia, manufacturers.

Dealers in this section received their allotted portions of the great shipment, which comprised the newest models of Philco receivers, and the shortage of models of Philco radios which dealers report exists here represents the condition throughout the southern part of the state, according to word received from W. L. King, Philco factory manager for Southern California and Arizona.

Prevents Famine
"King said the shipment arrived just in time to replenish depleted stocks and prevent a Philco famine throughout the Southland," declared L. A. Turner, local Philco dealer, "and the exceptional sales success we have had here with these new Philco models would seem to prove that our community is demonstrating its share of Philco enthusiasm."

The Philco factory at Philadelphia attributes in great measure its unusually good business, during these generally considered subnormal times, to the fact that Philco is the world's largest radio advertiser. The factory now is going full blast, which enables them to meet all orders from dealers throughout the country.

PHILCO BALANCED UNIT SUPERHETERODYNES ARE WINNING WORLD APPROVAL

Superheterodyne has swept the world and Philco, with balanced superheterodyne radio, the first line of its kind ever offered the public, has gained what is regarded as the unquestioned lead among radio manufacturers.

Philco is the only manufacturer to combine the tremendous advantage of balanced units, which absolutely eliminate tone distortion, with the acknowledged sensitivity and selectivity of the superheterodyne circuit. The result, as produced under the Philco policy of giving more radio for every purchaser's dollar, has taken the public by storm.

Outselling World
Philco is selling more balanced superheterodyne radios than all other makers combined are selling all kinds of radios, it is reported, for the balanced superheterodyne is a better radio and it is sold at a better price.

Balanced superheterodyne radios cut right through the maze of present-day broadcasting to get just the program the listener wants, regardless of crowded local stations. They separate stations cleanly, so that there is no cross-talk or interference, and they have such amazing power that they reach right out and get distant programs as easily as most sets get local.

Superb Performance
Philco has consistently refused to build radios which did not have adequate tubes. You can have confidence, if you buy a Philco, that you are getting an instrument able to do the work required and one that will certainly do far more than most persons expect. These superlative instruments are housed in the finest sort of cabinets. Norman Bel-Geddes, foremost American designer, created the cabinets for the 11-tube lowboy, highboy and combination and for the seven-tube lazyboy. Philco paid him $60,000 for the four designs, several times more, it is believed, than any radio manufacturer ever has paid for any single group of cabinet designs.

Prices Include Tubes
And to give complete, absolute assurance of supreme value, Philco has inaugurated the policy of pricing every set complete, with the tubes right in it, ready to be attached to aerial and ground and put to work on a long career of producing enjoyment.

SCHOOL FRIENDS GUESTS

CARDEN GROVE, Nov. 2.—Miss Jewell Rogers was hostess to a group of her high school friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rogers, recently.

The Halloween motif was carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

PHILCO MAKES PHENOMENAL SALES RECORD

Coming in three short years from 26th place among radio manufacturers to first place, Philco is now making and selling more radios than all other manufacturers combined. In fact, it is making nearly twice as many radios as all other manufacturers put together. Philco planned last June to make and sell 1,000,000 radios before January. From present indications this estimate was too low.

This is not due to high-pressure sales methods, or to any financial coup—it is just the natural consequence of building better radios and selling them for less money—better radios than other manufacturers make and less money than the public expects to pay, according to Philco officials. And the public has appreciated this fair dealing.

Philco's great new factories are turning out 12,000 radio sets a day now, and orders are pouring in at a rate that is causing Philco executives to think that maybe they should have more factory space, although since last year the factory capacity has been doubled.

Philco sold more radios last year than any other manufacturer; more, indeed, than five other leading manufacturers. This year Philco is selling twice as many radios as last year. And prices have been lowered.

PRIMARY PUPILS GUESTS AT PARTY

COSTA MESA, Nov. 2.—The primary department of the Community Sunday school was entertained in the social hall Friday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock with a Halloween party, given by Mrs. H. B. McMurtry, superintendent of the department, and the following assistants: Mrs. F. Philpotts, Mrs. O. G. Bernard, Mrs. E. A. Rea and Mrs. Henry Abrams.

The hall was decorated with many jack-o'-lanterns, smiling pumpkins, black cats, witches with plenty of bright orange flowers and many corn cobs as a background.

Refreshments of pop-corn balls and bright red apples were served, and the whole group of children, dressed in a variety of appropriate costumes, played games and then paraded from the church, around the triangle to the parsonage, where Mrs. Hase led in group singing.

Dance Enjoyed By Mesa Group

COSTA MESA, Nov. 2.—The Junior membership of the Friday afternoon club held a Halloween costume party and dance at the club house Friday evening with 100 present.

Many unique costumes were displayed and Mrs. E. N. Gage, dressed as "M.L.", and Mrs. D. Morrison, as "What-a-man," received the prize.

RESIDENT HERE FOR 35 YEARS ANSWERS CALL

Special from Anaheim

Anaheim citizens were saddened today at the death of Mrs. Margaret B. Rea, 82, of 224 East Broadway, who was one of the pioneers of the community and widely known for her interest and activity in church and lodge affairs. For the past 35 years, she has resided at Anaheim. Through her public spirited interests, she has become recognized for her achievements over Orange county as well as in Anaheim.

Her death occurred unexpectedly while she was at the mountain resort, at Idyllwild, where she was spending the month of October in the company of her two daughters. The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Backs, Terry and Campbell parlors. The Rev. J. D. Brigham, pastor of the Placentia Presbyterian church, will officiate. Burial will be made, after cremation at the Forest Lawn Memorial cemetery, at Glendale.

Scores of her friends were expected for the funeral services. Mrs. Rea was for 25 years treasurer of the Chispa chapter, Order of Eastern Star, Anaheim. For a number of years, she was president of the Ladies Aid of the First Presbyterian church of Anaheim, of which she was a member. She was active in the missionary society and the Women's Bible class of the church.

Her death occurred while she was riding in the automobile of her son-in-law, William Wallop, of Placentia, president of the Savings, Loan and Building association. At the time that she was stricken, they were at Anza, near Hemet. She was rushed to a doctor at Hemet who pronounced that she had expired immediately after being stricken.

Mrs. Rea came to California in 1875 and for several years she lived at National City and San Diego, finally moving to Anaheim in 1896. She came to California with James B. Rea, who died about 10 years ago, was one of the civic leaders in Anaheim.

She is survived by two daughters, Miss E. Kate Rea, of Anaheim, and Mrs. William Wallop, of Placentia; two sisters, Mrs. Catherine B. Richardson, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Ella B. Scott, of Detroit; two brothers, James B. Wilkie, of Whittier, and Thomas B. Wilkie of Turlock; Mrs. Earl Abbey, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. Stanley R. Lewis, of Pasadena, nieces, and several other nieces and nephews of Manitoba, Canada, and Detroit, Michigan.

ANAHEIM CLUB HAS DANCE AT SAN CLEMENTE

Special from Anaheim

Combining all of the traditional features of Halloween with the modernity typical of the Fifty Fifty club 100 members and guests met at the San Clemente Golf club in San Clemente Saturday night for a formal dance.

The long dance floor, opening onto a terrace on one side and a patio on the other was made festive with all of the appointments typical of the occasion. Jack o' lanterns gleamed from the walls, serpentine hung from the rafters of the low Spanish styled room, black and orange streamers brightened the end of the hall set apart for Billie Heger's six piece orchestra, while the whole effect showed artistic arrangement.

Fred May of Santa Ana was the general chairman while Mrs. Ole Hansen, sr., and Billy Hansen had charge of the decorations. The dance honored the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Cook, and the birthdays of Alan Hains, Margaret Martin, Marjorie Hanson, Ewald Lempeke and Bob Fernandez. They were the host and hostesses as well as the honored guests.

This was the first dance since the recent reorganization and incorporation of the club and as it is a social organization one formal dance will be given each month.

90TH ANNIVERSARY OF BIRTH HONORED

Special From Anaheim

Relatives of J. C. Rundstrom, of Long Beach, from Anaheim and over Southern California, joined in celebrating his ninetieth birthday at a party held yesterday at the Richmond hotel, Long Beach. Services were held at the First Baptist church in his special honor and the party at the hotel was attended by about 35 of the family, including children, grandchildren, nephews, nieces and others.

Now That Radio Sets Go a Motoring—

The Case of the Missing Sandals

By Nancy Barr Mavity

SYNOPSIS

Peter Piper, a California newspaperman with a flair for unraveling mysteries, gets an unusually difficult assignment when Luna, the head of a mysterious cult, is found murdered. The beautiful, dissolute and unscrupulous "priestess" has been both stabbed and shot. On her breast was a bundle of love letters from one of her dupes, Earl Vincent, a young radio operator. Peter notices that the sandals which Luna usually wore, were missing from her feet. There are several other clues which might have committed the crime, but suspicion points most strongly to Vincent, who disappeared at the time of the murder. Vincent is caught on a coastwise steamer, but escapes. Peter follows Vincent to a secluded shack, and finds Vincent. The suspect is persuaded to go to Peter's home, where Peter keeps him overnight to get a "break" on the story before handing him over to the authorities. Peter is convinced that Vincent did not commit the murder.

Even at the outlandish hour of 6 o'clock in the morning, Graham, descending the stairs in dressing gown and slippers, contrived to look inordinately neat. The faint fragrance of a very good shaving cream still lingered about him, and his crisp blond hair retained its dampness from the shower.

Peter viewed the approaching figure with irritation. Peter had overslept the alarm clock and had dozed in six minutes flat, with no time for shaving. He had jerked a button from his waistcoat in his haste, and had flung himself into a coat which bore no sartorial relation to his trousers.

His black hair stood out at all angles, where he had ruffled it in his annoyance at the quarter of an hour during which he had been kept waiting. His impatience had mounted to fury at the sound of the shower that reached his ears from somewhere above.

"My God!" he greeted Graham tempestuously. "If you caught a murderer red-handed, you'd stop and take a Turkish bath before you ran after him!"

"Oh, no, not a Turkish one—you newspaper men always do exaggerate."

Graham's smile was more cheerful than any man's smile has a right to be at 6 o'clock in the morning.

"I'm paying you a tribute, and you're unappreciative, as usual. That's the gratitude of the press! I thought you must have something important on your mind, when you yanked me up at this hour of the morning, and I was afraid if I didn't shave before I found out what it was, you'd rush me around so fast I wouldn't get a chance the rest of the day."

"You can't very well make me leave the house without my clothes, so I trusted I'd be allowed to get dressed. But as for shaving, I wasn't taking any chances!"

"Important!" Peter hoped his pause was properly impressive. "The representative of the Evening Herald has found Earl Vincent, that's all."

"You've found Vincent? Where is he? Wait a shake—I'll be with you in five minutes."

Graham was half way up the stairs, three steps at a time, when Peter's voice recalled him.

"I'm not missing any dead line waiting for you to adjust your necktie," he said sternly. "If you want to hear anything about Vincent, you come right down here and listen to it now. There's plenty of time. I've parked him where he won't get away."

"There's just one thing I want to hear. Where is he?" Graham paused in his upward flight to lean over the bannister.

"I can read all about the glory of the Herald in the paper. It's my job to get him before you guys have interviewed him and put a lot of ideas into his head."

"Well," Peter reminded him maliciously, "you can't go and get him till I tell you where he is, can you? And I'm not going to tell you until you've agreed to certain conditions."

"This is no time for fooling, Peter. If you've caught a murderer, it has something to do with the administration of justice. It isn't just a scoop for your precious paper."

"I'm talking to you now as the district attorney of this county. If you know where Vincent is, you'll tell me, and tell me quick, with no strings tied to it."

"I didn't say I'd caught the murderer," Peter corrected him mildly. "You said—"

"That I'd found Vincent, who's set you all off half-cocked so that you can't see anybody else in the picture."

"That's good enough—for the moment."

Don't let SORE THROAT get the best of you...

FIVE minutes after you rub on Muterole your throat should begin to feel less sore! Continue the treatment once every hour for five hours and you'll be astonished at the relief.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Muterole gets action because it is a "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation and helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Muterole handy—jars and tubes. To Mothers—Muterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Muterole.

ment," Graham answered grimly.

"Well, I'm warning you for your own good. Don't be too sure. Don't you give out any press statements that the case is solved. They may make you look very silly later on."

"The statement I want you to give out to all the boys is that Vincent gave himself up of his own free will. It happens to be true. He was all ready to hand himself over to the police when I found him last night."

"Last night! Then what kept him? What's he been doing all this time?"

"I persuaded him to wait," Peter said in his most dulcet tones. "I made him see that the police had no right at all to get him in time for the morning papers."

Graham lifted his hands in a gesture of surrender. "I give up," he said resignedly. "You capture a murderer, and instead of turning him over to the authorities, you—"

"If you call him a murderer again I'll spirit him away and swear I never laid eyes on him!" Peter flared. "That's what I'm getting at. Your public officials seem capable of holding only one idea at a time."

"Thereby differing, of course from Mr. Peter Piper," Graham retorted with pointed sarcasm. "If you caught a murderer in the act, you'd ask him please to hurry up with it so you could catch an edition."

"Well, I've got to catch an edition now, all right. And there's just one thing I want to do first. I want you to promise that there won't be any hammering on Vincent to get a confession out of him. That's the condition on which I produce him—that you tell the police the third-degree business, direct or indirect, is absolutely out."

Graham stood motionless on the step, his keen gaze fixed on Peter's upturned face.

"You've a reason for that request, Peter," he said gravely.

"I have, and this is it. You could break that boy in three days—break him so he'd confess he'd murdered his maiden aunt who is even dead. And where would it get you? The case would be gummed up worse than it is now, which is saying a good deal. You'd lose every bit of good he may be to you."

"You have reason to think someone else did it?" Graham prodded.

"I don't know," Peter lifted candidly and troubled eyes to the face above him. "But I've made myself sort of responsible for finding out. I'm going to find out, or bust myself trying!"

"But if that boy is badgered into a confession, and the confession turned out to be phoney, it would look mighty bad for somebody."

"And if it wasn't phoney?"

"Then, if the time ever comes that I come to you and say I'm convinced he did it, but can't scrape up enough proof to take to a jury, you may tell the cops the lid's off and they may go as far as they like in questioning him."

"Until then, mark my words, you'll get more out of him by soothing his fears and letting him alone. I've talked to him, and I know."

"You seem pretty certain—"

"I'm anything else but," Peter contradicted. "Look here, Bert. I dug up Mrs. Claypool's body and gave you a proper corpus delicti—and it was the right body. Now I've dug up the suspect you want—but I'm not at all sure it's the right suspect."

"I want to have a chance to look further without having a confession sprung on me that will make the office think I'm just fooling around to get out of work."

"Meanwhile this man you want wrapped in cotton wool will sit peacefully in jail, with plenty of time to work up a story he can stick to like a postage stamp," Graham remarked satirically. "He's proved himself pretty smart in giving us the slip twice already."

"He's either so smart that he's clear out of reach of ordinary guys like you and me and is about six moves ahead of the game no matter how we play it, in which case strong-arm methods wouldn't reach him anyhow, or—he isn't," Peter ended weakly. "Wait till you see him."

"I'm still waiting," Graham reminded him pointedly.

"Well, will you play it my way? Will you give me a chance?" Peter pleaded.

"You've got something on your mind—and sometimes your brain stoffs have been known to work," Graham conceded. "But if we let him alone, and then the whole case fizzles out, heaven help you! I'll admit we may have put all our eggs in one basket, but I've yet to be shown any other basket."

"It may be a simple love murder—and then again it may not. And if it is, the lady was involved with more than one man. You can't say she led a double life. It was at least a triple one, and maybe you could multiply it a bit further."

"Those cultists, for instance. I don't suppose you let them fade out of your consciousness altogether, just because Vincent led you a chase?"

"No, we didn't," Graham said drily. "The police rounded them up and questioned all of them—there aren't very many living at the place—but there wasn't a shred of evidence against any of them. They couldn't even be held as material witnesses."

"I'd like to have heard that questioning!" Peter snorted. "The average cop knows such a lot about borderline psychopathies."

"They may not have studied abnormal psychology, but they know evidence when they see it—and there wasn't any. That's that."

CHAPTER XV

There were times when Graham took a wicked pleasure in snubbing the over-confident Peter.

"I suppose they didn't get anything more out of the guard, either," Peter continued, unabashed.

"There wasn't anything to get. Since you're so fond of psychology, you might take his I. Q. I fancy he wouldn't rate very high."

"No?" Peter, remembering his encounter with the negro on the afternoon before Luna's death, permitted himself to wonder whether Jackson had not found stupidity the best of all possible armors against inquisition.

"He's blind, so he wouldn't be much help at making an identification even if he'd heard anything. And he didn't. He sticks to his story that he slept through the night, and there's no reason to disbelieve him."

Peter debated whether he should mention the suspicion which had formed in his mind as to the nature of Luna's business partnership with her husband, and decided against it. There was no use in giving away a tip where the other papers might pick it up before he had time to follow it himself. He wondered if that tip had already reached the police through the bank book, and ventured a casual question.

"Has anybody looked up Anthony?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, he's the woman's husband, all right. When she got hipped in this cult idea she left him. They've been separated for two years. But it was a friendly separation, and he kept her supplied with money—left their joint account open."

"He's a retired capitalist, with plenty of cash. He's offered a $5000

reward for the apprehension of the murderer, by the way."

"You tempt me to hope that Vincent did it, after all," Peter grinned. "I don't suppose you've had any more visits from Tanner?"

"I haven't. And just to show you we haven't neglected everybody else for Vincent, I'll tell you we've posted his description and the police are on the lookout for him."

"Posted his description! He's gone, then?"

"He hasn't been seen, so far as I can find out, since he left my office a week ago. But that doesn't mean much. We're just looking for him as a general precaution."

"A man would hardly come in here raising assorted Cain, just to make sure we knew he had a grievance, and then go out and murder the woman. Besides, there wasn't robbery, and what he wanted was his money back."

"So he did," Peter mused. "Anybody has no use wasting much thought on him until he turns up. I'm not going out to hunt for him. I've done my good deed already by bringing in Vincent."

"Only you haven't brought him in."

"I leave that to you, Good Lord. I will have to leave it to you, for a fact! Jimmy will be sitting on one ear—I've got to beat it to make the first run!"

Peter looked at his watch and had already dashed half way to the door before he turned.

"I've got to give the Herald credit for finding him, but I'll say you took him in custody and got his statement—the statement he gave me last night. I'll even say you rushed out to the call of duty in your pajamas, if you like."

"I don't give a hoot what you say. Where is he?"

"He's at my house, eating breakfast with Barbara!"

And with that as a parting shot, Peter slammed the front door behind him.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. LAYING THE FOUNDATION FOR BETTER CONDITIONS

MOST OF US have burdens and difficulties heavier, more harassing, than usual. And it would be mere optimism to say that good times are "just around the corner".

Yet, it seems to us, there is a brighter side to the present situation which should be more clearly realized.

We Californians are living today in a state blessed as are few states, just as the people of this country are living in a nation favored as are few nations.

This is, perhaps, the selfish viewpoint. But, from a broader vision of the entire world, are there not signs which are definitely encouraging?

Throughout the world, men and women—statesmen, educators, business leaders—are thinking in new terms. Adjustments are being made between nations, and in the structure of business—all based upon sounder ideas of what really makes for happiness and worthwhile progress.

This is the history of every crisis. It is the reward which mankind wins in its struggle with difficult conditions.

Translate this into terms of your own business, your own affairs.

Is it not true that the thinking you are doing now is geared more directly to realities than your thinking of three, five, seven years ago?

Is it not true that this thinking is, in many businesses, showing the way out of some of today's difficulties?

Are we not laying the foundation for more satisfactory conditions, when the world has adjusted itself to the aftermath of those fevered years between 1917 and 1929?

In our own business, we have benefited by the stern necessities of a difficult period.

Our organization has been strengthened. We have learned—and are still learning—how to be better bankers, more useful to our customers, and to the communities we serve.

When the record of California business and banking during the past two years is dispassionately reviewed, the stabilizing influence of this Bank's statewide organization becomes significant.

In a time of worldwide strain, the value of statewide branch banking has been tested and proved successful.

It is true, of course, that no bank could be so well equipped, in resources and organization, unless it drew much of its strength from the communities it serves. The soundness of California is reflected in the soundness of California's statewide bank.

The fact that this Bank is today so strong in resources and capacity to serve should be a real encouragement to all Californians.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR ALVIN A. DEWEY

ORANGE, Nov. 2.—Funeral services held Saturday at the Gilgoly funeral chapel for Alvin A. Dewey, 75, were largely attended. The Rev. Franklin H. Minck had charge of the services at the chapel and the members of the Masonic lodge of the graveside service. The floral offerings were of unusual beauty.

Pall bearers were D. C. Pixley, J. J. Case, William Feldner, L. W. Thompson, Wade Flippin and Logan Jackson. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery.

Miss Helen Gilgoly sang "Sometime We'll Understand" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" was sung as a duet by Mrs. Leon DesLarzes and Mrs. C. A. McGill.

Mr. Dewey, who passed away suddenly October 27, had been in failing health since he went to his old home at Cheney, Kans., in July. He had been a resident of this city for the past 11 years and before that time had lived at Cheney. He was a native of Illinois.

Since coming to Orange Mr. Dewey had been associated in business with his son-in-law, C. J. Hessel, retiring from active work in the firm about a year ago. He was a member of the First Christian church and was a life member of the Masonic lodge of Cheney, a charter member of the Eastern Star of that place. He was also a member of the Scottish Rite Masons of Long Beach and of the Odd Fellows and Modern Woodman of America of Cheney.

Surviving Mr. Dewey are his widow, Mrs. Eva C. Dewey; daughter, Mrs. C. J. Hessel; grandson, Lloyd H. Hessel; Glendale; granddaughter, Mrs. Wayne Hart, Appleton, and a grand-son, Lloyd Hessel Jr., of Glendale.

EAST WHITTIER MAN PREACHES IN EL MODENA

EL MODENA, Nov. 2.—At the El Modena Friends church Sunday morning, the sermon was preached by the Rev. Harley Moore, a former pastor of the church. After the opening exercises, Mrs. Luella Sondericker and Mrs. Roscoe Mahoney sang "He Is the Saviour For Me" as a duet. They were accompanied by Mrs. Mary Marshburn. The subject of the sermon was "The Invitation of the King," and the Rev. Mr. Moore took as a text Matthew 11:28-29, "Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart; and ye shall find rest unto your souls."

He said in part:

"God has a place for you in His service. Don't ask me where it is, I had a hard enough time to find my own place of service. God will put you where you belong, whether it is as a missionary, as a minister, or whether it is to be right down here doing the lowliest service. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me."

"It will do us good to learn of Jesus. Let us look at Jesus as a personal worker. As He talked with the Samaritan woman, how tenderly He led her along. When He talked with Zachaeus, that man who was small of stature, how He dealt with him. When He talked with the Syro-Phoenician woman, how tenderly and patiently He dealt. Luke tells of one day's work of the Master. In the early morning He was up on the mountain praying. It was the Sabbath and He went into the synagogue, and they gave Him the book and He preached the sermon. He went home with Peter, and Peter's wife's mother was sick and He healed her. Then Jesus stood on the streets and healed all those who were sick. The crowd went home but Jesus goes back to the mountains to pray."

"What we need is not more religion, but the Christ of the cross says, 'Learn of me for I am meek and lowly in heart, and ye shall find rest for your souls.' I don't know of any language more lofty, more poetical, nor a more sacred calling."

"Jesus said the foxes have holes, but the son of man hath no where to lay his head. He wasn't fussing over land, nor over possessions. When they came to Him, He always said, 'The Father is greater than I, and I have come to minister, and not to be ministered unto. He came to give himself a ransom for all. In all things, we find how He became obedient even unto the death of the cross. That despised death, which no Roman was forced to die, a death of ignominy and shame."

"Brother, sister, you can't have your own way, and have God's way. I remember when I was a young fellow, and enthusiastic, I asked a woman of about my own age to become a member of the church. She said, 'When I am ready to settled down to a long-faced condition, I will do it. The days came, and the days went, and finally she went to the city of Indianapolis, and not long afterwards, I read in the papers that a girl had been found dead behind a library stable, and the name was the same as hers."

"Her body was taken to the morgue. She had gone down like thousands of girls have gone; their lives wrecked, and everything lost, suicides. In the city of New York, one thousand girls are put in unknown graves every month. And then the men and boys, who are the wreckage of humanity. Yet Jesus stands, and says, 'Come unto Me.' Sometimes I go into the study at East Whittier Sunday afternoon and see the cars pass, hundreds of them. Men and women rushing here and yonder, filled with restlessness and trying to hide it in pleasure, in booze and the satisfaction of fleshly lusts. Jesus is standing, and saying 'Take my yoke upon you, for I am meek and lowly, and ye shall find rest for your souls.'"

TRIO PRESENTS PROGRAM FOR ORANGE CHURCH

ORANGE, Nov. 2.—The Carden Radio Trio gave modern spirituals at the Sunday evening service at the Christian church.

"Jesus Guarantees 10,000 Per Cent on Your Investment" was the title of the Sunday morning sermon by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck. The choir sang "The Lord Is My Light," by E. A. Ericsson.

The Rev. Mr. Minck said in part: "Peter and the other disciples were standing by when Jesus talked to the rich young ruler. They questioned among themselves they had given up everything, what were they to receive? Jesus told them he had called them friends. What will you not do for a friend? You have need of a friend in your life. Come as a friend in self forgiving service filled with love and sacrifice. Come in the spirit of a friend. Your reward in this life is one hundred fold and you have the promise of life eternal. The Christian's reward is joy and happiness, but there shall be persecutions. This life is a school of preparation for the life to come."

The trio rendered "Do Your Best, Then Smile," "You Must Come in at the Door," "He Is Safely Leading Me," "He Rolls the Sea Away," and "Singing While the Ages Roll." Miss Craven, a member of the trio, gave "I Love My Savior Best of All."

The Rev. Mr. Minck brought a message on "Does It Confuse a Person to Read the Bible?" He said in part: "The silver thread of Christ runs through the Bible pointing the way to the golden highway of life eternal. Our creed is Christ, read, believe, live and witness."

SEGREGATION OF CHILDREN BEFORE COURT

Refusal of the supreme court of the United States to pass upon the question of segregating Mexican children will have no effect upon the situation in Santa Ana. While several schools here are located in Mexican districts of the city and thus are made up of Mexican children, some of the Mexican youngsters are educated in other schools, notably the John Muir school.

In many cases it is more efficient to educate these children in schools by themselves, because their ability to speak the English language is such as to handicap them if placed with American children, according to Dr. Percy R. Davis, superintendent of schools here. He pointed out that segregation of Mexican children simply on a racial basis is not recognized by California school law and is not practiced here.

The case upon which the supreme court refused to pass was one in which Jesus Salvatierra and other property owners of Spanish descent in Val Verde county, Texas, sought an injunction to prevent part of a bond issue from being used to enlarge a school used exclusively by Mexican children. The court of civil appeals of the fourth supreme court judicial district at San Antonio, Texas, upheld the segregation.

WILL CONSIDER CONSOLIDATION OF DAIRYMEN

Proposals for consolidation of the three co-operative dairy associations now operating in Southern California into a single more effective organization will be one of the principal topics for consideration at the regional meeting of dairymen from the five counties of this district, to be held at the Women's clubhouse in Garden Grove next Wednesday.

The meeting will be called at 10 o'clock, it is announced.

Representatives from the counties of Orange, Riverside, Los Angeles, San Bernardino, and Ventura are to be present, it is expected.

The proposed plan for a dairy producers association of Southern California will be explained by Dr. H. E. Erdman, of the division of agricultural economics at the University of California, and by J. J. Deuel, manager of the law and utilities department of the California Farm Bureau federation.

ARRANGE SERIES OF DEATH VALLEY TOURS

Visitors to Southern California during the next few months again will be afforded the opportunity of regular escorted tours to the "low-est point on earth," in Death Valley, according to an announcement released today by W. A. Shook, Santa Ana agent of the Union Pacific system.

Eight of the most comprehensive sightseeing trips ever planned by the railroad have just been completed by the Union Pacific. The first tour will leave Los Angeles on November 25. One will leave in December, two in January, two in February and two in March, it was stated.

Each tour will spend three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in Death Valley and the expense of the trip will be included in the purchase of one tour ticket. Such places as Rhyolite, Beatty, Leadfield, Titus Canyon, Furnace Creek, Dante's View, the Harmony Borax Works, Stove Pipe Wells, and the "Bad Lands" will be on the itinerary of each tour.

Addresses Heard Yesterday In Santa Ana Churches

SACRAMENT IS OBSERVED AT GOSPEL CHURCH

"As long as the church holds sacred the ordinance set up by Paul 'For I have received of the Lord that which I also delivered unto you,' the bombs of infidelity, atheism and unbelief that may be hurled at the church will fall prostrate," the Rev. Alice W. Parham told members of the Four-square Gospel congregation in her sacrament sermon Sunday morning.

Attacks on the church which abides by and realizes the meaning of Paul's message will fail, she said, "because it points back to the upper room and Calvary's rugged steep, revealing to use the very Son of God."

"Man holds sacred the day when his ancestors purchased with their own blood from some foreign foe or alien race their freedom and political liberty. The Fourth of July is celebrated by us in America. Very soon the world will celebrate Armistice Day, but today we celebrate the freedom that delivers men and women from all power of sin, disease, appetites and lust."

"The only one who shed His blood for all mankind was Jesus Christ Himself; our blood avails for naught, but the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin and iniquity. Jesus became our passover lamb and from His sacrifice on Calvary we can claim our inheritance, a clean life through salvation and a well body through healing."

Tonight Dr. Sastram, a prison lecturer, will address the congregation as a feature of a series of revival meetings. Young people especially are invited to be present. Thursday Rev. and Mrs. Dornance will have charge of the meeting with special musical numbers. The revival will close next Sunday night, it was announced.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

"The hope of the righteous shall be gladness; but the expectation of the wicked shall perish." This proverb constituted the text in the lesson-sermon on "Everlasting Punishment" Sunday at the Santa Ana First Church of Christ, Scientist.

One of the scriptural selections included the words of Ezekiel: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die. The son shall not bear the iniquity of the father, neither shall the father bear the iniquity of the son; the righteousness of the righteous shall be upon him, and the wickedness of the wicked shall be upon him. But if the wicked will turn from all his sins that he hath committed, and keep all my statutes, and do that which is lawful and right, he shall surely live, he shall not die. . . . For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God; wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "The way to escape the misery of sin is to cease sinning. There is no other way."

REVEREND SCHROCK DEFINES
FUNDAMENTALIST AS PERSON
WHOSE MIND WON'T STRETCH

"A fundamentalist is a person whose mind won't stretch. It is without elasticity." Such is the definition of a fundamentalist given by the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock at the First Congregational church yesterday morning. The definition was given in the course of a sermon on "Sensible Maidens." The church was participating in the observance of the golden jubilee of the Girl Reserve movement.

The speaker drew his subject from Moffatt's version of the parable of the ten virgins. "Ten maidens took lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom and the bride. Five of them were stupid and five were sensible." He stated that the thing that distinguished the sensible from the stupid was the sensible carried extra oil for their lamps and the stupid did not. The sensible were prepared for the future and the stupid made no preparation. He likened the youth of today, who are going out to meet the world of tomorrow, to these ten maidens. The Rev. Mr. Schrock said, in part:

"We want our maidens and our youths to belong to the sensible group. We want them to be prepared to meet the problems and emergencies of the world tomorrow which will be their world. There are four things that are essential in preparing them for that experience. I find them in the prayer which one of these Girl Reserves has offered in this service. Here they are: a spirit of adventure, a mind that will stretch, high desires, and a deepening sense of kinship with God."

Need Elastic Minds
"We talk much about the virtues of the open mind. Something more than an open mind is needed. A small mind, wide open, will not hold very much. One of the difficulties of our day is that so many minds are too small. They may be open but are too small to hold a large idea and consequently it just spills it out instead of being retained and used."

"What is needed is minds that are elastic minds that will stretch sufficiently to accommodate new ideas. Take this matter of religion and science. So many minds won't stretch enough to hold so great an idea of God as our modern view of the universe demands. Such a person is a fundamentalist. His mind is not elastic. It cannot stretch sufficiently to take in and use a new and great idea. Because his mind is small and unable to stretch he thinks the idea must be wrong. This is just as true of political and social fundamentalists as of theological. The young person who is to be adequately prepared to meet the world of tomorrow will have an elastic mind—it will stretch sufficiently to accommodate a new idea."

To Hold Special
Service Wednesday

Mrs. Della Ealy, mother of Norma Ealy, girl evangelist conducting a revival at the Church of the Nazarene, will hold a special meeting at the church on Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. for women only. She will continue her talk on "How I Was Saved from Spiritualism." She has been asked to give the same talk at Orange and Garden Grove.

GIRL TELLS STORY OF PAUL AND KING

In her message yesterday at the Church of The Nazarene, Miss Norma Ealy, the girl evangelist, pictured the Apostle Paul in his great defense before Agrippa, saying: "Behind him were the truth of the Scriptures, and the authority of the Cross." The king was cornered and convicted by his fiery words, and said, 'Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.' Agrippa was thinking of his kingly position, his riches and power. Could he forfeit these if necessary to become the follower of Christ? Though 'almost persuaded,' he was blinded by the false glitter of the world, and chose the way of the Christ-rejecter."

"You may be 'almost persuaded,' but still you are lost. 'Almost' will not save you, or remove sin from the heart. Only a 'fully persuaded' heart can hope to find peace in Jesus."

The revival meetings are continuing this week, with meetings every night at 7:30 o'clock, except Saturday. Something unusual and interesting is planned for every service.

The evangelist announced that some of her subjects for this week are, "Tarry Until," "Fatal Night," and "My Life Story," the latter being Friday night.

To Entertain S. S.
Pupils Tomorrow

Sunday school officers of the Spurgeon memorial Methodist church, south, will be hosts to all Sunday school pupils of that church at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow, when a play, "The Second Mile," will be given in the main auditorium. The drama will be followed by a friendship hour in the dining room. Refreshments will be furnished by the officers and teachers.

Organize Class
In Cost Estimates

A new class for the study of estimating from plans is to be formed at the Julia Lathrop Junior high school next Wednesday evening, meeting weekly on that date from 7 to 9 o'clock. The class is a new phase of study which has been carried on as a "plan reading" class in the past as part of the adult education program. C. Tedford is in charge of instruction. The class was organized especially for builders and contractors.

DISCUSSES WAR, ASSERTS YOUTH
PROHIBITION AT STUDYING BIBLE
BIBLE CLASS AS LIFE GUIDE

In a short preface to a temperance lesson before the Men's Community Bible class in the Fox West Coast theater yesterday morning, the Rev. Walter S. Buchanan, class teacher, commented briefly on war and the way to rid the world of it. "There is so much talk of war that nations soon find themselves in it," he said. "It is one of the troublesome problems of the world today. The way to avoid it is to quit following man's program—men are not pointing the way out of war—and to follow the program of Jesus Christ."

He began the morning lesson by declaring that if a man cursed the prohibition law it was because that man needed a new guide in his life. "Wickedness will not stop until you put the right spirit in man," the class teacher said. "Prohibition will not succeed until men catch the spirit of Christ. The cause of war and trouble in the world is greed and avarice. Our task is to bring Christ into the hearts of men. That will transmute them. When men love one another as Christ loved men, that will mean the end of war and grief and sin."

"The day has come for men to stand up against corruption, lust, uncleanness, drunkenness and all these things that are destroying homes. We must take a firm stand in the face of disapproval and opposition as Christ did, and carry through to victory."

"The ways they are selling more liquor now than in the days of the saloon. That is not true, else why are they demanding a change in prohibition? Changes would not abolish blind tigers, for they have them in Canada with government control and they had them in the days of the saloon."

"God's love and guidance will help us solve all these things. Love, peace and kindness will follow. Men, carry on the program of Jesus."

American Indian
Is Study Theme
At Baptist Church

The School of World Friendship now being held in the First Baptist church, was well represented Sunday evening in the various study classes, and general assembly where an interesting and instructive feature with Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks as chairman, was given on the theme of the American Indian. The platform was attractively decorated with exhibits of handiwork from 10 of the 290 tribes in North America. An organ recital of Indian music was given by Mr. Verne Harrison.

A play by the pastor, the Rev. H. E. Owings, emphasized the love of Christ for all nations of the world. The choir, with Mrs. Charles Nalle, as director, then gave an inspiring and helpful message in song.

Giving the final talk of a series on youth and the Bible, Carl Sumner Knopf, of the University of Southern California, spoke last night at the First Methodist church on the topic, "Youth Looks at the Bible." Despite laments to the contrary, youth does read the Bible, the speaker declared. Modern youth is neither hopeless nor helpless and thousands are studying the Bible, not simply as a theological treatise but as a compendium of eternal truth that points to satisfactory ways of ordering one's life, he declared. His address in part follows:

"If youth looks at the Bible, it must be looking it out behind the bars, according to the lament of some of the elders. Youth is not carrying the gilt-edged volume under its arm in public. This may be just as well, for too many who used to carry the Word of God failed to do anything with it in their lives."

"Youth is looking at the Bible, however, as I can well testify, and I am living with them every day on a university campus. The world is pretty complicated and great ideas are at a premium, especially such ideas as will help one to get along in this maze we call life. Science has done much, but it can not bind a broken heart. Philosophy has helped a few, but it gives the majority a headache. Being anti-religious and hard boiled is mostly a pose, and unsatisfying."

"When we pick up the Bible we find not only a statement of problems, but definite solutions. Like oases in a desert these simple, kindly solutions have stood through the centuries and thousands have found something worth while in them."

Continuing his address, Dr. Knopf called attention to some of the common youth problems, problems of life purpose, problems of money, problems of love. He pointed out the unsurpassed philosophy of life found in the wisdom of the book of Ecclesiastes—work will do the only permanent attainment; evil the result of man's wrong choices.

The problems of modern youth were discussed as problems that have always been with us. Life is more complicated today, but the tools for living are better, he said. Modern youth is neither hopeless nor helpless. New translations and new information about the Bible is making it more and more a volume that rises above creed. It is being studied by thousands of young people today, not simply as a theological treatise, but as a compendium of eternal truth that points definitely to satisfactory ways of ordering one's life, he pointed out.

REV. AKER POINTS WAY FOR BUSINESS MEN TO MEET
PRESENT ECONOMIC CRISIS

Declaring that the only safeguard against present conditions and future financial disasters is in making the kingdom of God first in life, the Rev. Cecil M. Aker in a prelude to his sermon at the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church last night discussed "How Business Men Should Meet the Present Crisis."

He said in part:

"There has never befallen the business world a greater crisis than the present financial disaster. This financial storm like other storms seems to have swept everything before it. The best conducted businesses seem scarcely more secure than the worst. The keenest financial geniuses are brought to bankruptcy as well as the common lot of bad managers."

"At such a time as this, how should the honest business man, who has conducted his business according to sound business principles, face the prospect of certain bankruptcy that threatens him? The worst feature of the present depression is not the break down of so many fortunes but of so many characters. The main issue is not only how to save his business from wreck and ruin, but himself from despair."

Keep Self-Respect
"No man can afford to allow his true manhood to be lost with his money. Suppose this world-wide economic storm should sweep away a man's wealth? He still has left the original capital he brought with him into the world—himself. He should not, therefore, lose his self-respect and his faith in his ability to recoup his losses when the depression blows over. If a man has been doing the best he could and yet loses out in this extraordinary business disaster that has overtaken the finances of the world, he should feel no more humiliated or mortified by it than if an earthquake had swept away his possessions. Instead of criticizing himself and giving away to fits of melancholy, it is time for him to rise and assert his faith in himself and to his God."

"It is true many mistakes in the past have been made. It would have been better to have done otherwise in many cases if this financial disaster could have been foreseen. But there was no way to see around the corner as to what may happen in the future. Then why blame himself for something that could not be foreseen? It is the part of wisdom to hold steady when in a panic, and calmly and deliberately face the disaster with resolution and without fear. This is but another opportunity to show one's

WORD OF GOD
SERMON THEME

"One of the saddest chapters in human history is the record of that period when, after the establishment of the New Testament church by the apostles, the authority of the Word was gradually relegated into the background and the authority of man was established," said the Rev. Kilham Schrock, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church, yesterday in his sermon on "The Authority of the Word."

"Naturally such a move could bring only disaster to those over whom it was exercised. For even the best of men are sinners and unsafe guides; no matter how exalted may be their theories and ideas in a certain measure, the passions of men are bound to rule. The spiritual conditions of the time was truly desperate, the way to salvation was almost totally obscured, Christ's mercy, forgiveness, free pardon were almost unknown terms."

Then came the great Reformer. What did he do? He did nothing more than to reestablish the authority of the Word. The authority of man had demanded penance to satisfy divine justice and to bring comfort to the distracted soul. It had told him to pay, to pray, to work, and to do. The authority of the Word said that all was done, that complete justification had been effected. But Luther did not know this. The authority of man drove him into the cloister. It drove him to his knees in ceaseless prayer, it drove him to awful wakefulness, cruel fastings, and pitiless self-castigation. Finally he found the Word of God and earnestly began to study it.

"Then came the event that is no doubt the outstanding event in modern history, the mailing of the 95 Theses on the church door of Wittenberg. Every single contention was based on the Word of God. In order that the souls of men might be bound by this authority only he undertook the translation of the Bible."

"Luther did not preach a new religion but he again set forth the old truths of the Bible. His great work was to re-establish the authority of the Word, to dig out from the accumulated filth of the ages the Cross of Christ, to make plain once more the principle of sin and grace. Luther uncovered the old apostolic treasures. He did nothing more nor less than to bring back into its own once more the Authority of the Word of God."

Daughters and daughters-in-law of Ebell club members were cordially urged today to be present at an important organization meeting to be held in the Ebell lounge tomorrow night at 7:30 for the purpose of definitely shaping the Junior Ebell group which was tentatively formed last Friday. Officers are to be elected tomorrow and the general work of organization undertaken. The group will be largely social in nature, at least until a more definite program is formulated, and the enthusiasm shown thus far promises an interesting future for this club. Eligible candidates were reminded today that those joining as charter members will be admitted on a reduced admission fee. Refreshments will be served tomorrow night under the supervision of Mrs. Edmund C. West and Miss Nan Mead.

Two Hallowe'en Events Find Setting in Ranch Home

The R. J. Mueller ranch home on Tustin avenue was the setting for two pretty affairs in the past week, the most recent of which was given by a daughter of the home, Evangeline Mueller and her friend, Adeline Loptien.

Hallowe'en was the incentive for the affair, which guests attended in costume. Games of interesting variety were enjoyed, with a fortune hunt and a "50" contest of special interest. Successful scorers in the evening's diversions were Malinda Walker and Elmer Morner, while Alice Des Launay and Gubard Clasen were consoling.

Symbols of the season including cornstalks, pumpkins, cats, owls and others were used in decking the home for the occasion. In concluding the affair, the little hostesses served refreshments of sandwiches, cake, punch and candy in the evening's theme.

Those present other than the hostesses, Evangeline Mueller and Adeline Loptien were Ruth Kliss, Elmer Morner, Donald Knack, Alice Des Launay, William Kehlbrenner, Dorothy Siemens, Helen Kohes, Sirena Muffelman, Velma Ratka, Gerhard Simon, Gertrude Ratake, Gerhard Clasen, Walter Leichter, Esther Intorf, Mildred Schmitgen, Malinda Walker, Lester Kuhn, Elmer Wagner, Clarence Elstie, Lorene Krahnik, Dorothy Amling and Clara Meyer.

Dinner Party
The home was the setting for a party earlier in the week when Mr. and Mrs. Mueller entertained a group of friends at dinner. Atmosphere was provided by cornstalks, pumpkins and other figures suggestive of Hallowe'en, while guests, themselves were in costume.

Dinner was served early in the evening and colorful appointments were used at this time. Black and orange candles were lighted to glow softly on the bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums used in decorating for the affair.

Five hundred was the game of the evening, with Mrs. Otto Risto and Ray Kuechel scoring high and Mrs. Albert Schroeder and John Elstie, low.

Afternoon Bridge Club Has Pretty Luncheon

Mrs. John Luxembourger entertained members of her afternoon bridge club at a 1 o'clock luncheon, yesterday, at her attractive new home, 2414 Palmont street.

Brilliant autumn leaves graced the one large luncheon table, and maple leaf nut cups marked the places of the guests.

Mrs. D. H. Betten won the first prize for the afternoon's game, and Mrs. Walter Hill, the second.

Mrs. W. B. Leecraft of Long Beach, sister of the hostess, and Mrs. Lawrence Bemis were club guests. Members present were Mesdames William Harwood Penn, D. H. Betten, Sidney Russell, Z. B. McKinney, Walter Hill, Elmer Christensen, P. F. Colchokich, Roy S. King, and S. B. Kauffman.

Swales Called East For Three Weeks

L. G. Swales, 2866 Riverside drive, left today by train for Detroit, Mich., to visit his sister, Mrs. Herman Rolapen, of that city.

Swales was called east at his sister's request following the death of her husband in Detroit some two weeks ago. Swales, who was born in Detroit, is returning to that city after an extended absence, his last visit there having been made 15 years ago. He expects to be gone about three weeks.

The meeting followed a pot-luck dinner at noon.

Mrs. Golden Weston, who is in charge of the adult education in Santa Ana, since the need of getting the public acquainted with the variety of classes in the schools offered to fit the needs of practically every individual. She mentioned especially the lectures given the second Friday of each month by Dr. J. Hudson Ballard, in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Weston also made an announcement concerning Dr. Gertrude Law, child training expert, who has been conducting classes in the Santa Ana schools for several years, in that this will be her last year here. Her classes are held Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock in the Fremont school auditorium, Eighth and Artesia streets. Her classes in leadership will be held Tuesday afternoons from 1 to 2 p. m. in the board room, Board of Education building, 1015 North Main street.

Honored Guests Are Hosts at Formal Club Dance

Coming as the first affair since the club's recent incorporation was the formal dance enjoyed Saturday night at the San Clemente Golf club by members of the 50-50 club. The wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dee Cook and birthdays of Alan Rains, Margaret Martin, Marjorie Hanson, Nweld Lempe and Bob Fernandez were celebrated, with the honored guests presiding as hosts.

Fred May was general chairman of the affair, while Mrs. Ole Hanson and Bill Hanson were in charge of decorations. The effect achieved through the use of many Hallowe'en appointments was most charming. From the rafters of the Spanish-style clubhouse were hung streamers in the colors of the season. Many Jack-o'-lanterns lighted the rooms, and other Hallowe'en figures were used in decorating.

Billie Rogers' six-piece orchestra provided music for dancing. Throughout the evening punch was served, with the clubhouse patio providing the setting for this refreshing event. About 100 members were present to share the monthly affair.

Huffman Home is Scene Of Various Affairs

Red apple salad, nut bread sandwiches, individual pumpkin pies and coffee were served.

Long Beach Wedding Is Surprise to Local Friends

Friends of A. L. Berkland, machinist for 10 years on the Santa Ana Register, were surprised to learn today of his marriage Saturday evening at 7 o'clock to Mrs. E. M. Meurhead of Long Beach. The ceremony took place at the Episcopal church parsonage in Long Beach and was performed by the pastor of that church.

The newlyweds left Sunday morning for a week's honeymoon in Calexico and will return to make their home at the Berkland residence, 820 West Sixth street, this city. Mr. Berkland's son, F. L. Berkland, is also employed at the Register.

Presentation of Cake Comes as Surprise To Hostess

When Miss Mary Henrietta Nau, 206 South Birch street, invited several of her school friends and instructors to be her guests at a Hallowe'en party Friday evening, little did she think that there were pleasant plans being made in her honor.

Miss Mary transformed the garage into a gala spot for the affair, using Hallowe'en appointments. Bridge, pit and other games were played until ten o'clock, when she led her guests into the house for refreshments. Lights had been dimmed, and when they were turned on she received the surprise of the evening, the presentation of a beautiful birthday cake, bearing the inscription "Sweet 18."

Mrs. Samuel Nau, mother of the young hostess, had planned the birthday feature of the party, and accompanied it with the serving of a delicious chicken menu.

Miss Nau's guests were the Misses Edith B. Alton and Josephine Arnoldy, and Clyde Cook, whom she counted as special guests, and the Misses Betty Smalley, Jeanne Leive, Natalie Neff, Mary Tuthill, Ruth Jenkins, Dolly Boyle and Lois Young.

District Convention To Take Place in Santa Ana

Business women of the district are anticipating the southern district convention of Business and Professional Women's clubs to be held in Santa Ana November 14 at the Masonic temple. Although this is a monthly affair, one of its features, the presidents' council, is held but twice a year.

The 40 presidents of the district are expected to take part in this round table discussion, together with members of the general board. This will convene between the hours of 4 and 6 p. m. and much of the time will be devoted to a discussion of present-day problems.

Beginning at 6:30 p. m., the banquet will be held. Mrs. John Tammann is to be the speaker of the evening, with "The World of Today" as her topic.

Musical numbers during the affair will be given by Vladimir Len-ski, violinist, and Leonora Tompkins, pianist; and Mrs. Harry T. Smith, vocalist, and Miss Ruth Armstrong, accompanist.

Games will be played. There will be prizes, and refreshments will be served.

The Senior Guild of the Church of the Messiah will have a regular meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the parish hall.

School-day Theme Used In Entertaining At Bridge

The happiest of school-day activities was recalled the past week in the home of Mrs. J. F. Richards, 806 North Olive street, where friends were bidden to celebrate the Hallowe'en season in a unique manner. Guests were asked to attend attired in appropriate school-day costume, and a most delightful afternoon ensued.

The fun began when the box lunches which all had prepared were exchanged, and the varied menus were enjoyed in a setting provided by yellow and blue flowers and Hallowe'en appointments.

After the guests had displayed their costumes to the best advantage, Mrs. Thomas Tournat was awarded the prize of the day. Other prizes were awarded for the bridge contest which followed, and these were won by Mrs. Jules Markel, Mrs. Hazel Summers and Mrs. John Rudolph.

Mrs. S. A. Moore was the teacher of the afternoon, and she requested each of her pupils to recite verses learned during school days.

Club Plans Tea for Benefit of Milk Fund

As a means toward creating a milk fund, members of the Spurgeon school club are planning a tea for the afternoon of Tuesday, November 3.

The affair will be given in the school auditorium and Mrs. James Givens, who is in charge, has chosen a capable committee, and promises a pleasant afternoon for all the club members and their friends.

Bridge, other games, sewing and informal chat will be the order of the afternoon, for which only a small charge is to be made.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Rolls for Sunday Morning
Wouldn't you like to have the lightest of hot rolls to serve for Sunday morning breakfast? I had just made these one Sunday morning lately and begged the recipe for my column. The materials will make seven dozen small rolls, but as these are icebox rolls you can make a panful at a time. The sponge will keep about ten days.

ICEBOX TEA ROLLS
1 cake yeast
2 cups tepid water
1 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
4 tablespoons melted fat
7 cups sifted bread flour
Break up the yeast cake and soften in a half cup of tepid water. In a big mixing bowl put the remaining tepid water and salt, add the soft yeast cake and beat briskly with an egg beater. The next add the two eggs. Just drop them in and whip until they are well mixed. Now the melted shortening goes in and this may be butter, lard or a vegetable shortening. Whip the liquid briskly to mix the fat, then add the sifted flour until all is used and a quite stiff dough is the result. Turn the dough onto a floured board and knead lightly, then place it in a buttered bowl with a little melted fat wiped over the top of the sponge, cover with a towel and let rise until doubled in bulk.

Some of the dough may now be taken out and formed into rolls, or the whole mass may be slashed down with a knife to break down the fermentation, and the sponge covered and put into the icebox until wanted. Rolls taken from the chilled sponge must be given a full three hours at a room temperature in which to rise. Bake them in a quick oven.

Important
If your icebox dough goes sour and the rolls are inclined to be flat, the trouble lies in the container. Have a bowl which can be made air-tight and have it chilled to the temperature of the icebox before the sponge is placed in it. You see, attempted fermentation takes place until the warm bowl chills to the icebox temperature, and this causes sour, flat dough.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Lemon Snow
1 tablespoon gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1/4 cup lemon juice
1 cup sugar
Pinch of salt
2 egg whites, beaten stiff

This easy dessert for Sunday dinner can be prepared the day before. Soften the gelatine in the two tablespoons of cold water, stir into the boiling water until dissolved, take from the fire, stir in the sugar, lemon juice and pinch of salt. Stand the vessel in cold water and as soon as it begins to jelly, whip it to a froth. Combine now with the two whites, beaten stiff, put into a glass bowl and set in a cool place.

This recipe can be varied by using various canned fruit syrups, cutting down the sugar to allow for the syrup. Pineapple juice, canned raspberry, peach or apricot syrup make splendid desserts.

A Custard Pudding. Sauce. Add a tablespoonful of corn starch to the two egg yolks left from the pudding. Add sugar to taste, a pinch of salt and a little vanilla. Pour into two cups of scalded milk and cook until the custard is thick, cream. Cool and whip briskly just before serving.

Tuesday's recipe will be a so cream chocolate.

ANN MEREDITH.

NEW STAR RISES

Helen Hayes, an unknown in screen circles, who makes a striking hit in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," which is now showing at the Fox West Coast theater.

HELEN HAYES APPLAUDED IN HER FIRST FILM

Introducing Helen Hayes, stage star, to screenland and finding one of the nation's greatest emotional actresses is what "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," now showing at the Fox West Coast theater does.

A picture filled with emotion, showing the strong love of a mother for the son she did not want, her sacrifices and hardships and yet with a happy ending for all concerned, "The Sin of Madelon Claudet" is one of the most striking motion pictures that has been the pleasure of the writer to see in several months.

A fine picture—one that will appeal to every man and woman in the city, its plot will cause women to cry a little and men to have a deeper understanding of mother love. The direction is particularly good, and the remarkable acting of Miss Hayes is expected to make her a star over night.

Lewie Stone has one of the important roles in the picture and Jean Hersholt is seen as the family doctor. His work in the picture also is to be highly praised.

COLMAN PLAYS ROLE OF ROGUE IN NEW FILM

An unshaven and disheveled Ronald Colman, without his striped trousers, his Oxonian speech or his Chesterfieldian manners is the not inconsiderable promise in "The Unholy Garden," the new Samuel Goldwyn picture which is now showing at the Fox Broadway theater.

In this adventure melodrama by Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, Colman is seen as Barry Hunt, a gentleman adventurer, a rogue who has seen better days and honest ways. With a motley crew of murderers, thieves and other outcasts, he is hiding from the police in a Sahara outpost camp.

One of the number, a wizened old Frenchman, is believed to have hidden his plunder somewhere upon the premises, and to worm this information from him is the individual and collective effort of the group. Spying and intrigue and flying desert rides and murders are essential ingredients of the yarn.

Fond of Story

Coleman expressed a great fondness for the story while filming it. Largely, he explained, because it made him think of the beloved "Zou Zou Geste." His preference is still for sophisticated comedy—for what once was known as "a comedy of manners." An occasional relief is necessary, he believes, in order to break down what in pictures is called a singleness of purpose. Samuel Goldwyn has procured a commendable cast in support of the star for "The Unholy Garden." It includes Fay Wray, Estelle Taylor, Tully Marshall, Warren Hymer, Ullric Haupt, Henry Armetta, Kit Guard, Lawrence Grant and Lucille La Verne.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grover and family attended the funeral of Mrs. Grover's uncle, Mr. Rohrs, which was held Tuesday afternoon with interment in Westminister cemetery.

Martha Nagamatsu, 13-year-old daughter of the Japanese who ranches the Wright land south of Bolsa, is convalescing satisfactorily from a recent operation performed. She has been brought to her home from the hospital.

The house of Mrs. Sarah Gardner has been moved from its former location on what is now the Maurice Price ranch to a location in the rear of the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Ed Marlow.

Mrs. Hayden, mother of Louis Bauer, who has been very ill, is reported as improved. Mrs. Hayden, a former resident of this vicinity, resides in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hap Post, who has been in Los Angeles for several weeks, has returned home. Mrs. Post's parents and other members of the family, who were injured in an automobile accident, are now at home except one sister, who is yet in the hospital.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAI COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

As Clowny donned a great big hat, he said, "What do you think of that? I'd look just like a Mexican if I had proper clothes. The hat, though, seems too big for me, and it's as heavy as can be. If I should pull it down, 'twould cover up my ears and nose."

"If you think you look funny, gee, all of you Tiniemites gaze at me. My size must be much smaller 'cause it sits atop my head. These hats are nice, but I don't care to have this type for daily wear." They all agreed that Scouty was correct in what he'd said.

The Travel Man then said, "Let's go and see a basket-weaving show. I'm sure some weavers are nearby. It's fun to watch them weave. Each basket which is finished nice is sold, and at a real fair price. We'll find a man and watch him make a basket ere we leave."

They hadn't walked so very far till Coppy shouted, "There they are!"

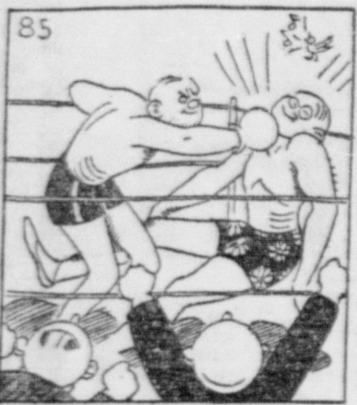

I see large baskets hanging up. The man is making more. They rushed right up and gathered 'round, all very pleased that they had found the very interesting sight that they were looking for.

"Sure, you can watch me," said the man. "I'll do the very best I can to show you how the weaving's done. It's not so hard, you'll find." And so they watched him work away. Said Clowny, "Gee, it's just like play." One basket soon was finished. Then he made another kind.

This one was large and colored bright. Wee Carpy cried, "That's quite a sight!" And then the Tiniemites noticed he was weaving rather slow. "In doing this, more time I need. I'll work a word that you can read," explained the man. Then on the basket he worked M-E-X-I-C-O. (Copyright, 1931, NEA Service, Inc.)

Family To Reside In West; $200,000 Home Given City

SAN CLEMENTE, Nov. 2.—The Frank Gates Allens, of Moline, Ill., one of the best known of middle west families, are moving to Southern California, perhaps to make San Clemente their home. The Moline Daily Dispatch of recent issue carried a front page story of the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Allen of their $200,000 home to the people of Moline for the school system of that city. The story stated that the Allens, due to medical advice in regard to Mrs. Allen, were moving to California.

Mrs. Otto H. Siefert, writer and poet, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen, has a summer home in San Clemente. She resides here each summer, where she prepares her books for publication and also does writing for national magazines. Last summer Mr. and Mrs. Allen resided here and expressed themselves as pleased with the residential advantages of the Spanish village. Business called the Allens back to Moline and now comes the story of their generous gift to that city and of their resolution to make their future home in Southern California.

Mr. Allen for years has been a financial and political power in the state of Illinois.

W. C. T. U. HEAD MORE PRAYER. GIVES ADDRESS LESS FORCE IS IN BUENA PARK DECLARED NEED

BUENA PARK, Nov. 2.—At the First Congregational church service Sunday morning, Pearl Kendall Hess, of Orange, medical director of the W. C. T. U., told of the challenge to the United States delivered by the delegates present at the W. C. T. U. world's convention at Toronto, Canada.

The choir sang "O, Come Let Us In," with solo parts by Mrs. W. L. Newman, soprano, and Stanley Kurtz, baritone.

Mrs. Hess said in part: "The women of the United States by prayer could put liquor out if they would. The women of India would do it. They closed the rum shops by standing at the doors in mute appeal until the sales affected the crown and the women were thrown in jail. Against England and the women were released and the shops were closed."

"Veteran Mary Campbell, for 45 years in India, spoke at the convention in a dynamic message and challenge. 'Power may go out from this meeting to move the world for prohibition,' she said. The W. C. T. U. was born of God, and carried on by prayer."

"Hold fast for prohibition and get on your knees and then go out to serve and to sacrifice."

America at the present time is suffering with a let-down following the World war, said the Rev. Mr. Hunter. The influence of wars has always been coarsening and that war has always been the antithesis of Christian religion, he said. Not only is this condition true in this country; but the same is true all over the world.

It is this letdown in our morale that is making the people think and think seriously. The disrespect for the law is a problem which the teachers and parents alike must face, he said.

He said that the present situation needs education of a scientific nature as to the ill effects of alcohol as well as a campaign of education regarding the degrading social effects of alcohol on the people. He spoke of the recent book by Upton Sinclair, "The Wet Parade," which recounts the social effects of alcohol in former years, and emphasized the need of everyone to have a remembrance of the conditions prevalent in the old saloon days.

"The sentiment of wine, women and song is nice to sing about by our entertainers; but it will not stand up before scientific investigation," he said.

"Even a bootlegger has a soul. Perhaps he has been driven to that work in order to earn a living. Perhaps our social order is not entirely right and the idea of 'soaking it to 'em' as expressed by some is not a Christian method of handling the problem."

The reason we want prohibition is in order to protect our people from crime," he concluded his sermon by stating that more prayer and less force was needed in the handling of the problem, that with the use of prayer and right thinking, the temperance problem would be settled satisfactorily.

ALAMITOS SOCIETY GIVES PLAY NOV. 19

Mrs. Younger, the president, took charge, with her mother, Mrs. Haywood, reading the scripture lesson. A letter was read from Mrs. C. Jones stating that they were pleasantly located in the parsonage at Imperial. Mrs. Jones thanked the members for the present they presented to her before leaving. The society voted to send $10 to a student from the Guatemala mission field who is preparing himself at Ann Arbor college to return to his home country to give medical aid.

For the lesson of the afternoon, Mrs. L. Newsom read an article on Jamaica and Mrs. A. G. Stanley gave a summary. Nineteen members and six visitors were present at the meeting. Mrs. Miller, assisted by her daughter, Catherine Miller, and little Pauline Hanson served a dainty luncheon. The society will sponsor a play November 19 at the church.

New Test Of Deep Sands Due At H. B.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 2.—Tom Powell, independent oil operator, who with his associates owns and operates 11 wells in the field, stated yesterday that the group of operators associated with him, had practically decided to put down a deep test in the west end lot field in Huntington Beach.

The well which will be deepened is the old Alberg oil company well on Eighteenth street between Ocean and Walnut avenues. The Powell group is engaged now in putting a well on Seventeenth between Walnut and Olive on production and when this work is completed, will move the crew over to the Alberg well and start the deep test. Powell stated: "This would make the commencement of the well about December 1."

The showing at the McCaslin well when it was swabbed 10 days ago influenced Powell to plan the deep test. The new test will be made regardless of whether or not the Superior oil company well is a success. The Superior well is located at Fifteenth and Ocean and is now drilling around 3000 feet.

CARD PARTY TUESDAY

GUARDS WATCH AVOCADO GROVE AT CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Nov. 2.—J. Roy Smith, pioneer avocado grower of this district, reports the theft of more than 500 pounds of avocados from his orchard northwest of town. The fruit, grown in an orchard somewhat remote from any habitation, was taken on a number of different trips, as near as Smith can check. Armed guards now stationed in the orchard are prepared to protect the trees against any further pilfering.

One night this week one of the guards sighted a man stripping fruit from a tree. The alarm was given and the thief darted between the rows of trees and escaped, although five shots were fired at him. A large rice sack, with a number of avocados inside, was found beneath the tree. The thief was tracked a distance of nearly a mile, to where his car had been parked in a private lane on the Russell Cook ranch off McCaslin avenue.

Smith, whose fine orange grove has been the subject of much publicity, was the first to start growing avocados in this section of southern Orange county. When asked how he happened to start his orchard, he stated that his father, A. M. Smith, well known orange grower of Orange, who died last year, prevailed upon him to plant one tree for home fruit. Going with his father to a nursery, Smith bought a dollar tree of the Northrup variety and started experimenting in avocado culture. That was 14 years ago. Today he has a fine grove of between five and six acres, which produces large quantities of fruit, the year around, as the varieties have been chosen to ripen with the changing seasons. Most of the producing trees are eight years old and are in prime condition.

A WORD TO THE LADIES

Recently Lawrence Stern & Company, prominent investment bankers of Chicago and New York reported on a study it had made. They announced that forty-one per cent of the individual wealth of the country is already controlled by the women. Women are beneficiaries of eighty per cent of the life-insurance policies in force in the United States. Women pay taxes on more than three and a quarter billions of individual income annually. Women comprise the actual majority of stockholders in the largest corporations in America. Women millionaires, as indicated by individual income-tax returns, are as plentiful as men. Women are receiving seventy per cent of the estates left by men. Other organizations confirm these statistics on the financial position of women in the United States.

The facts are interesting from several angles. In the first place there is the alarmist among the men who predicts that by the year 2025 all the wealth of the United States will be in the control of the women. There is little reason to fear, however, for it will probably continue to be easier for women to control the men who control the money than to control the money. The information will be particularly interesting to men and women of foreign nations. The women will probably envy the American women more than ever before, and in a sour grapes fashion call the husbands "women-ridden molly-coddies." On the other hand, European men will be more curious than ever about the compelling charm and siren qualities of the American women and will be touring America, with their ears closed by sealing wax.

Professor Albert Jay Nock addresses a word in the Atlantic Monthly to feminists. His point is well taken. He cites history to prove that whenever women have had economic power they have always been able to do what men have done. The feminist no longer can get up an argument on the thesis that women can do anything that men can do.

The most progressive spirits among the feminists, says Professor Nock, should address themselves to leading women to do the thing which men cannot do.

"Women," he says, "can civilize society, and men cannot. . . . In the greater concerns of life it is the absence of the impulse toward civilization that justifies women in their complaint that men are forever children. Men feel no more natural, unprompted sense of responsibility than children feel for the work of civilizing the society in which they find themselves; hence, in respect of all life's concerns, even its very greatest, women have been figuratively cuffing and coaxing this sense into their heads, figuratively overhauling them, not so much for unwashed ears and unblown noses as for the persistent tendency toward these, the indefeasible disposition to accept a general regime of unwashed ears as normal and congenial and to regard any complaint of it as exorbitant."

If women are the civilizing influence Professor Nock believes they are, and if they have the wealth financial studies reveal that they have, the United States is destined to have an interesting era of culture.

GOOD FORTUNE, ANYHOW

Most people who live in small cities or rural sections have only pity for those who live in the city. That is why there is so little argument about the advantages of city dwelling in comparison with living where congestion is not so great. Most of those who have experienced the joy of living out where one can see a sunset and smell the orange blossoms and dig about in a garden for the most part recognize that they are so fortunate that to say much about it would be like boasting of great wealth. It would be poor taste.

It is inconceivable to such an one that anyone would prefer living in crowded cities unless they are so inexperienced that they don't know the relief of not knocking elbows always with other human beings, of going for a ride on Sunday without having to fight traffic, or dirt. There are people who see the country as being constantly harassed with city noises and a novelty but not an enjoyable experience.

A poor man in New York the other day was arrested because he tried to take home a bucketful of soil from a city park. The poor fellow wanted to fill a flower pot or two so that he could have some geraniums on his fire escape. He had to have some dirt.

Aldous Huxley, the too wise young author, in a column article says, "The modern city gives much to its inhabitants; but they have to pay for all they get—heavily."

The garden and the yard may look a bit untidy and discouraged during these days of fall heat and hot winds but after all it still remains a garden—with tiny spokes of freesias poking their way out among the fallen leaves of the walnut trees, and the sweet peas are putting up a brave resistance against the elements so that some of their ultimate beauty will be completed, and then there are the catalogues with the promising pictures of spring blooms. The garden is a hopeful place anyhow; the large city is a most discouraging place. On the one hand one sees the hopeless human beings, and on the other hand displays of wealth which turn one into hopeless human beings.

Prisoners in Fort Leavenworth hooted all night because they were locked up before hearing their favorite radio programs. Night kill two birds with one stone by putting in the radio stars too.

GOOD-BYE MR. ROOSEVELT!

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt has indeed some hard hurdles to cover if he ever lands the presidential candidacy on the Democratic ticket in 1932. In fact, we believe his chances are nil, and it is probable that the public will have to bid good-bye to Mr. Roosevelt as a possible nominee.

As conditions were proceeding in New York and in the nation, it looked as though the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt was a certainty. This would have at once placed Mr. Roosevelt as the leader of New York's Democracy, a position which Mr. Alfred E. Smith has held for years.

It appears that Mr. Smith simply couldn't stand this possibility, even though it might have made him the second man in national political life. As we have said before, he would rather be first in New York than second in the nation.

It is not difficult for a state leader to find fault with another leader in the state. Mr. Smith has assaulted Mr. Roosevelt on two issues, those of reforestation and of taxation.

When it is remembered that Mr. Smith has never, up to this time, attacked the political action of a Democratic governor of New York or a Democrat in high position, in any manner, the significance of this difference can be better understood. The only exception to this was when Mr. Smith refused to run as a candidate on the same ticket with William Randolph Hearst, but he claimed that Mr. Hearst never was a Democrat.

But there is further difficulty for Mr. Roosevelt. Now comes Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, as "wet" as is Mr. Smith, and declares that the type of man that must be nominated in the Democratic convention is a man as "wet" as Al Smith or Cermak himself, and he says he has particular reference to Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois.

There is little doubt but that Smith will control New York's delegation. There is less doubt that Cermak and Hamilton Lewis will control Illinois' delegation. With these two delegations against Roosevelt, he has no chance. Not only so, but they are determined that a "wet" shall be nominated, and it is entirely possible that they will renominate Al Smith.

But any other candidate would still leave Mr. Smith in absolute control of New York's Democracy. Mr. Smith's strength has always lain in his being "one of the boys,"—in his common touch. There are rumors trickling through that since he has become the head of a big financial corporation, and hobnobs with the wealthy that he is losing certain strength in his personality.

The big financial interests are against Roosevelt. Smith is against him. Cermak is against him. He is too "wet" for the "drys" to be interested in the disposition which will be made of him. It is entirely possible that the "wet" end of the party, Maryland, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts, and other states, will take such action as to insure their own defeat.

However, the Democrats believe that if our present depression lasts until next summer, the chances for Democratic success are extremely great, and in spite of the tremendous beating which Mr. Smith got, he does not want to see a chance go by that might make him president. He occupies, in his own judgment, undoubtedly the same position in respect to possible victory that Bryan did in the Baltimore convention.

When the Airship Gets Its Growth

Christian Science Monitor

What a vista is in prospect for the star gazer of the future! Ships of the air two or three times the size of the U. S. S. Akron are forecast by Lieutenant-Commander Rosendahl—ships so large that they will require baby bunnies for buttons and a supply of helium gas sufficient to float an apartment house.

Expressing a belief that the dirigible of today is a mere infant, Commander Rosendahl predicts that maturity will give it proportions not to be sneezed at even by a Jules Verne. Much of the increase in growth he expects will take place at the belt around the waist of a dirigible, which he believes will be a glorified frankfurter or an inflated Edison bulb, a flock of them is likely to cause at least a partial eclipse of the sun during their periods of migration.

A dirigible capable of disposing of fifteen to eighteen million cubic feet of helium gas at one meal is likely to exhibit physical proportions that will make it no mean playmate for some of the riskiest little asteroids that have been playing with the astronomers ever since the first spyglass was invented. When the day of a multiplicity of these aerial monsters finally arrives, astronomers may find the skies so cluttered up with foreign objects that they will appeal to the League of Nations to obtain an occasional few hours of "free sky." In the meanwhile, dirigible builders may get a few ideas from the balloon sleeves of the "gay nineties," which are said to be coming back bigger and ballooning than ever.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TO AN ORIOLE

When I get in the winter's coat
And sigh to think how much it costs,
And wish that, like the burrowing mole,
I might dig down beneath the frosts,
You sense the blizzard in the breeze,
Although I never shall know how,
So far above the moulting trees
And shape your course sou'west by sou'.

And while I shovel snow away
So I may leave my cottage door,
You're on your calm untrodden way
To some remote and palm-fringed shore,
Where sunbeams move across the ground,
Where swarms of buzzing insects lurk,
And food and plenty may be found
With but a few brief moments' work.

When I would build myself a home
I needs must find a mortgagee,
While you from out the woodland roam
And flutter 'round from tree to tree;
Some twigs you gather in your beak,
Some moss you garner from the shade,
And lo, in less than a week
The only home you want is made.

No wonder that your days are spent
In unreflecting careless song,
No wonder that you seem content
Although your days may not be long.
Your oscine blood may sometimes chill
When you observe a prowling cat
Sneak, crouching toward your tree, but still,
You have a darn good time, at that.

After so many revelations, nothing Tammany can be caught at will shock the New York populace, unless some leader is found carry off the city hall on a moving van.

Uncommon Sense

BY JOHN BLAKE

"PAST REGRETS AND FUTURE FEARS"

I don't know whether it was old Omar Khayyam or his translator, the very gifted Mr. Fitzgerald, who wrote the quatrain: "Oh, my companions, fill the cup that clears Today of past regrets and future fears. Tomorrow? Why, tomorrow I may be Myself with yesterday's ten thousand years."

There are passages in that very great translation which, some classical scholars tell me, are to be found only there, the latter poet having here and there taken liberties with the text of the author.

But whether it was written by the Persian or the bard from Suffolk, only half of it is good advice. The line about "past regrets" is more clumsily, though equally forcefully, expressed by the adage to the effect that there is no use crying over spilt milk.

But it seems to me that future fears have done a great deal toward graduating competent men and women from the school of experience—still the most important institution of learning on this earth.

The trouble with us people who constitute the earth's population is that we too readily forget.

Men who go to war, after they have found out what it is like, take a solemn vow that they will never participate in another one. But when another one comes along, if there is any fighting strength left in them, back they go.

The man who has lost his savings in the stock market takes high resolutions to keep out of speculation in the future.

But then comes a rise in the market and a consequent orgy of buying, and to market he goes again with his whole basket of eggs.

If we could only learn, not only from our own experience but from that of others, that the biggest mistake that can be made is making the same mistake twice, our education would be a far easier job for the teachers and the moralists.

But all burnt children do not fear the fire. Most of them start poking their fingers into it almost as soon as the smoke from the last burn is healed.

A great community, not far from the place where I live, has time after time elected a crooked political organization to control and manage it, and every time it has discovered that the members of this organization are more interested in their own pocket-books than in the good of the city.

Yet year after year the same organization is put into power, and year after year its members resume the practice of theft upon a wholesale scale.

A teacher once told me that only the dull do not learn from experience. If she was right we must be sure of what the young clappers, referring to bashful swains, term "dumbbells."

(Copyright, 1931, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The fellows was out in front of my house tawking and argewing, and me came to the front door saying, Benny, I need a dozen eggs and I need them immediately, and when I say immediately I don't mean at the pleasure of your convenience.

And she went back in the house and I started to go around to the store, and just then the fellows started to see how many jumps they could do the street in, so I had to come back and get in it, taking a pretty long of a while on account of being a lot of arguments about it, and me came to the door again saying, I thawt I herd your voice but I couldn't believe my ears, do you mean to say you haven't started yet?

No mam, yes mam, I said. And I quick started to run around to the store like somebody breaking a record, and I got the eggs and on the way home with them I tried to see if I could do the alley in one jump, landing on the edge of the curb and having a fearsome time to keep my ballents, and all of a sudden I realized I was squeezing something all my mite with both hands, and what thinking, Good nite, heck, I won't do it! But the bag of eggs, me den if anything happened to any of them.

One I didn't look to make sure on account of not wanting to be too sure because I was pretty sure already, and when I got back to the house the fellows was holding up a string to see who could jump the highest strate up in the air, so I leened the bag of eggs agents the lum post and got in it, and me came to the door again looking mad for real, and I quick picked up the eggs and ran in with them, and me grabbed a hold of my collar with both hands and started to shake me as if she thawt I was a rug with dust in it, giving me a deer, and I said, Hay ma, look out, I bet you've went and did something to these eggs.

And I opened the bag and looked in, saying, Holey smokes I was rite, ma, you went and broke about half of them.

Wich maybe she did for all I knew, but anyways instead of making her mad at herself it just made her even madder at me, the rest being too sad to describe.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

IF GANDHI SHOULD SUCCEED

Every one who has come into contact with Mahatma Gandhi is struck by his unexpected combination of uncanny shrewdness and unearthly saintliness.

As we watch him observe his day of silence amidst the turbulent discussions of the Round Table conference in London, we catch the sense of his unearthly saintliness.

It was not at all the unearthly saint whose keen eye caught the fact that the machinery of these English factories was not as up to date as the machinery in the factories of India.

This strain of shrewdness in the Mahatma has led some to doubt his sincerity.

It has led many more, who do not doubt his sincerity, to believe that, should he succeed in gaining Indian independence, he would prove a very practical statesman.

There are many who believe that the day India gains her independence Gandhi's crusade against machinery as a western devil will disappear.

Such observers contend that the Indian interests back of India's cotton mills are doubtless helping to finance the Gandhi movement, not because of any anti-machine policy, but because through this movement they hope for a freeing of their hands for future industrial development in India.

Such observers predict that, once he gains his point, we shall see Gandhi moving in the matter of tariffs and mechanization with the uncommon shrewdness of the practical statesman.

My own belief is that Gandhi is sincerely wedded by temperament to the handicraft economy, and yet I quoted enough from Gandhi the other day to give some grounds for believing the opposite.

Certainly the Mahatma's spinning wheel as a symbol has dramatized by contrast the tragedy of over-production and consequent unemployment that have followed in the wake of machine economy.

Maybe the Mahatma's hatred of the machine is a hatred of the machine only when it is a tyrant; maybe he will some day teach India to use the machine as a tool. (Copyright, 1931, McClure News-P'n Sm)

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI
TEACHING HIM

I happened to be sitting in the school garden and saw it all. It was funny from my point of view. The boys didn't see the humor of the situation, not having the advantage of my age and experience, I suppose.

Four of them, from the seventh grade, were crossing the garden. One of them stopped, dramatically stretched his arm and pointed to a retaining wall that was being laid to hold up a garden plot. "Give me a reason," he said in high-pitched, strident tones. "Give a reason for that wall's being put there."

His companions looked at him in amazement. They started to go on to the playground but he halted them with that menacing finger and strident, commanding tone. "Give me a reason, give me a reason for that wall's being put there. You" and he tapped the shoulder of the lad nearest him, "you give me a reason."

The boy gave him a startled look and followed it with a lightning-swift punch on the nose. The other pulled him away and the garden teacher rushed up. What's this? What's this? Putting up a fight in the garden? How do you get that way? I'll look into this. I'll—"

"He hit me in the nose, Mr. John. He hit me first. You ask him." "Sure I hit in the nose. He's off his head. Stopping me and yelling to me to give him something. I gave it to him all right. If—"

"You big stiff. I was teaching you. I was teaching you like Miss Kate teaches us in geography. Give me reason," says she, like that. I asked you to give me a reason about the wall. It's to stop erosion. That's what. You'll have that question this afternoon. And you punch me in the nose when I try to teach you."

"All right. Stop hollerin' at me. I didn't know you were teaching." I hoped they didn't see me there wiping the tears of laughter out of my eyes. Poor Miss Kate. Why does she stab them with questions? Why does she fix them with a glittering eye and demand they deliver information at the point of her fountain pen? It tires her and it drives the boys to desperate ways.

Seriously, the manners of the classroom are very important. The teacher's manner of speaking, the tone of her voice, the attitude of mind revealed by all she says and does influence the pupils to an extent far beyond the bounds of the classroom. What the teacher is counts as much as what she teaches of the course of study. Indeed I believe it counts for more.

Teaching 40 boys of the seventh grade is a hard job. It requires strength of body and health of mind. It requires, too, a knowledge of boyhood. It is noisy but it likes the quiet-voiced teacher. It is disorderly but it likes the well ordered room. It is erratic and uncertain but it looks for calm and certainty in the teacher. It is blundering and crude and dependent but it hopes for guidance, culture and strength in the teacher. Teach him, but please teach him what you would be proud to have him say he learned from you.

On Nov. 2, 1917, the transport Finland and the steamer Rochester were torpedoed, killing 26 men. The Rochester sank, but the Finland managed to limp into port. Seventeen men, including two enlisted men acting as armed guards, went down on the Rochester. The survivors suffered terrible hardships before reaching land.

Three naval gunners, four merchant seamen, and two enlisted army men lost their lives on the Finland.

General Von Berr, commanding the Wustenberg armistice on the northeast front, was shot dead while visiting the trenches near Riga.

The Italians abandoned the eastern bank of the Tagliamento river from the Fella Valley to the Adriatic sea after fighting on the middle and lower sectors of the river.

Meantime the Germans retreated from the hilly sections of
